studies multilateral population security issues and relevant governance strategies caused by international migration in the countries impacted by China's Belt and Road initiative and their border areas. Buttressed by solid data mining and policy analysis, the title looks into the demographic trends of international migration in China and some Asian Belt and Road countries and stresses the urgency for more effective governance practices. Seeking to address the population security crisis triggered by the Initiative, the authors propose the idea of multilateral population security governance grounded in the real world challenges facing Belt and Road countries while also drawing on experiences of migration governance in western countries. As a new governance model, it calls for cross border joint action and takes into consideration pertinent factors including economy, politics, culture, religion, and commerce. Several case studies and comparative studies are offered in the chapters to illuminate the significance and effect of this cooperative mechanism. The book will be of interest to researchers and government officials interested in non traditional security, international migration, and formal demography, as well as topics on population resources and environment.

Handbook on Ageing with Disability Michelle Putnam, Christine Bigby, 2021-03-10. Mainstream gerontological scholarship has taken little heed of people ageing with disability and they have also been largely overlooked by both disability and ageing policies and service systems. The Handbook on Ageing with Disability is the first to pull together knowledge about the experience of ageing with disability. It provides a broad look at scholarship in this developing field and across different groups of people with disability in order to form a better understanding of commonalities across groups and identify unique facets of ageing within specific groups. Drawing from academic, personal, and clinical perspectives, the chapters address topics stemming from how the ageing with disability experience is framed, the heterogeneity of the population ageing with disability, and the disability experience, issues of social exclusion, health and wellness, frailty, later life, and policy contexts for ageing with disability in various countries. Responding to the need to increase access to knowledge in this field, the Handbook provides guideposts for researchers, practitioners, and policy makers about what matters in providing services, developing programmes, and implementing policies that support persons ageing with long term disabilities and their families.

The Australian Ageing Generation Handbook Josie Gagliano, 2014-04-01. I want this book to give hope and guidance and offer some light in the midst of the madness. The Australian Ageing Generation Handbook is the only of its kind in Australia and just in time. Recent studies show that Dementia will become Australia's greatest killer in the coming years. With great improvements in the world of modern medicine, senior Australians are enjoying their quality of life for a much longer time. However, this means the ageing population of Australia is also increasing and many children are struggling to cope with the responsibility of care for an older parent, as well as their own children, while maintaining a healthy work-life balance. Josie lives this life right now and has been caring for her mother who suffers from Dementia for several years. As Josie experienced in the beginning, many children caring for older parents have no idea what to do, where to go for help, how to navigate not only the services on offer but also the flood of emotions and challenges that face them The Sandwich Generation as Josie calls it is the key market the generation in between looking after elderly parents and kids and perhaps even grandkids However younger generations looking after elderly parents or even grandparents will benefit from this book also Collaborating with aged care services and communities around Australia Josie has fast become the go to guide for ageing care A member of Alzheimer s Australia Josie has written The Australian Ageing Generation Handbook to provide Australians with a resourceful list of services for the family members caring for their elderly parents
