

a) Classification of redeemable preference shares

In terms of IAS 32.18 the substance of a financial instrument rather than its legal form governs the classification of a financial instrument. (1)

In terms of IAS 32.11 a financial liability is any liability that is a contractual obligation to deliver cash. (1)

There is a contractual obligation to deliver cash in terms of the redemption of the preference shares. A fixed payment is due on 31 December 2015. (1)

There is also an obligation to pay the dividend. (1)

Franco Ltd does not have an unconditional right to avoid paying the dividends and capital therefore it is a financial liability. (1)

The legal form of the preference shares are equity but the shares are liabilities in substance. (1)

The redeemable preference shares shall be classified as a financial liability. (1)

(6) -> (5)

- b) In accordance with IAS 33.23 ordinary shares that will be issued upon the conversion of a compulsory convertible instrument are included in the calculation of basic earnings per share from the date the contract is entered into. (1) (IAS 33.23)

These compulsory convertible instruments (preference shares) are not potential ordinary shares that may result in additional ordinary shares, they will definitely result in more ordinary shares and are therefore treated as ordinary shares from date of issue. These compulsory convertible preference shares are included in basic earnings per share. (1)

If these preference shares were not compulsory convertible, they shall not form part of the basic earnings per share calculation but form part of the diluted earnings per share calculation (1), only if in terms of ranking and testing it is indicated that these preference shares have a dilutive effect. Acid Mine Drainage and its Governance in the Gauteng City-Region Kerry Bobbins,2015-05-29 Acid mine drainage AMD has generated an enormous amount of media interest and public concern in the Gauteng City Region GCR over the last decade However it has been framed as a narrow technical concern with government action being directed towards securing the necessary engineering and processing solutions as quickly as possible to prevent decant and treat acid mine water to industrial standards This has arguably limited the scope for full discussion and debate on the impacts of AMD particularly for the environment and this bears implications for how AMD has been managed in the GCR Government s immediate short and long term interventions to address AMD have been set out as a straight forward solution but over time more complex environmental concerns have emerged Becoming more evident over the last few years is that one of the main impacts of AMD will be its effect on the overall water security in the Vaal River System VRS on which the GCR relies for its supply of potable water Limits on water abstraction from the VRS together with the increasing need to maintain the overall water quality in the system through dilution and treatment activities means that AMD is beginning to manifest as a binding constraint on economic development and a burden on society in particular via escalating costs for water consumers Fiscal constraints are likely to see GCR residents and businesses pick up more and more of the costs associated with the treatment of AMD through the format of increased municipal tariffs With final decisions on municipal tariffs now pending the broader yet invisible impacts of AMD loom large This means that the debate has moved far beyond the issue of predicted decant in each of the Witwatersrand s mining basins Water security for the GCR and who will carry the costs associated with the long term treatment of AMD have instead taken centre stage This paper carefully updates the historical record on AMD since the publishing of a GCRO Provocation on the issue in 2010 In doing so it argues that the way in which AMD has been governed raises a flag around how the political economy of an issue such as AMD should be understood publicly debated and managed In particular it suggests that the governance of an environmental challenge such as AMD is not only about finding a technical solution The lack of platforms to ensure well informed public deliberation especially over such issues as who will pay and how must be addressed to ensure more equitable and transparent decision making In light of the broader mine waste legacy inherited by the GCR and the strong likelihood of environmental contamination becoming more commonplace in the future these concerns are not only limited to AMD They will only grow in importance over time

Decentralised Democracy in India M. V. Nadkarni,N. Sivanna,Lavanya Suresh,2017-08-07 This book provides a vantage point of comparison of the actual reality of decentralisation in India with Gandhi s vision of decentralised democracy or what he referred to as Gram Swaraj It looks at the historical evolution of panchayats from ancient times to India s independence and critically discusses the developments after It examines the functioning of the present Panchayati Raj Institutions PRIs and the performances of urban local bodies The basic thrust of this work is the need for constitutional reforms meant to strengthen and deepen democracy The book will be useful to those in political studies policy studies public administration and development studies

General Studies Vol.2 Indian & World Geography Solved Papers (2023-24 UPSC State PSC(Pre)) Youth Competition Times , 2023 24 UPSC State PSC Pre General Studies Vol 2 Indian World Geography Solved Papers The Politics of Distributing Social Transfers Tom Lavers,2022-05-19 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4 0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations The Politics of Distributing Social Transfers in Sub Saharan Africa and South Asia provides a systematic analysis of the political processes shaping the distribution of social transfers in six countries in Sub Saharan Africa and South Asia In doing so the book addresses a notable gap in recent research on social protection concerning the politics of implementation While considerable attention has been devoted to debating the merits of different policy designs and the political factors shaping the adoption and diffusion of different policy models ultimately the ability of any social transfer programme to deliver on its promises is dependent on the effective implementation and distribution of social transfers in line with intended objectives The chapters in this book examine international and sub national variation in programme implementation in Bangladesh Ethiopia Ghana Kenya Nepal and Rwanda drawing on a common analytical framework that highlights the importance of state capacity and reach rooted in histories of state formation and contemporary political competition in shaping the distribution of social transfers Comparative analysis of the case studies supports the view that variation in the capacity and reach of the state within countries is a centrally important factor shaping the effectiveness and impartiality of distribution Yet state capacity alone is insufficient Rather political competition and power relations shape how this capacity is actually deployed in practice As such the book underscores the inherently political nature of implementation and questions common technocratic efforts to improve implementation by de politicizing the social protection policy process

China's Peasant Agriculture and Rural Society Jan Douwe van der Ploeg, Jingzhong Ye, 2016-05-20 China's agriculture and rural society has undergone rapid changes in recent years Many poorer farmers and younger people have moved to cities and yet China has an immense challenge to feed a growing and more affluent population This book provides a bottom up view of China's agriculture showing how the many millions of Chinese peasants make a living It presents a vivid description of the mechanisms used by rural households to defend and sustain their livelihoods increase their agricultural production and improve the quality of their lives The authors examine the newly emerging trajectories of entrepreneurial and capitalist farming and assess whether such alternatives will be able to meet the enormous social economic and environmental challenges that China faces The book also explores the paradigm that has underpinned the organisation and development of China's agriculture from ancient times to the present day This shows the importance of balancing in the Chinese model as compared to the one sided imposition of continual modernization in the western model It is argued that such balancing is at the core of the current Sannong policy referring to the three ruralities of food sovereignty wellbeing for peasant households and an attractive countryside

State, Land and Democracy in Southern Africa Arrigo Pallotti, Corrado Tornimbeni, 2016-03-03 Each country in southern Africa has a unique history but in all of them socio economic inequalities and high poverty levels weaken the governments legitimacy and represent a challenge to models of economic development

One key issue appears to be the solution of the land question This vital concern affects both citizenship and democracy in the political systems of the region yet no government has shown the capacity or commitment to solve it In this volume leading European American and African scholars explore in detail the relationship between state land and democracy They examine the historical background of asset allocation and its impact on questions of nationality the definition of citizenship human rights and the current political and economic processes in southern Africa

History of Industrial Uses of Soybeans (Nonfood, Nonfeed) (660 CE-2017) William Shurtleff; Akiko Aoyagi, 2017-12-03 The world's most comprehensive well documented and well illustrated book on this subject With extensive subject and geographical index 145 photographs and illustrations mostly color Free of charge in digital PDF format on Google Books

Food Security, Agricultural Policies and Economic Growth Niek Koning, 2017-04-21 Using a political economic approach supplemented with insights from human ecology this volume analyzes the long term dynamics of food security and economic growth The book begins by discussing the nature of preindustrial food crises and the changes that have occurred since the 19th century with the ascent of technical science and the fossil fuel revolution It explains how these changes improved living standards but that the realization of this improvement was usually dependent on government support for smallholder modernization The author sets out how the evolution of food security in different regions has been influenced by farm policy choices and how these choices were shaped by local societal characteristics international relations and changing configurations in metropolitan countries Separate chapters are devoted to the interaction of this evolution with debates on food security and economic growth and with international economic policies The final chapters highlight the new challenges for global food security that will arise as traditional sources of biomass production and the more easily extractable reserves of fossil biomass become depleted or can no longer be used Overall the book emphasizes the inadequacy of current explanations with regard to these challenges It explores what is needed to ensure a sustainable future and calls for a rethinking of these issues a necessary reflection in today's unstable global political situation
