ManagingNonprofits.org Ben Hecht, Rey Ramsey, 2002-02-26 Nonprofit managers have been slow to embrace the digital age Although technology has transformed the face of the for profit sector and how it operates nonprofit use of technology to improve internal functioning and to change the way services are delivered is almost nonexistent These limitations actually have opened the door for for profits to compete successfully for traditional nonprofit business such as moving people from welfare to work ManagingNonprofits.org is both a call to action and a roadmap for change Each chapter defines an element of Dynamic Management and identifies digital hotspots or places within that element and the nonprofit's implementation of that element where digital issues will most likely arise and need to be addressed In addition at the end of each chapter Maxims of Dynamic Management or core truths that the authors have found helpful to follow in their day to day experience as nonprofit leaders in bringing Dynamic Management to their organization are provided Finally the authors highlight the experience of various nonprofit and for profit organizations that have successfully made elements of Dynamic Management a reality in their organizations The Israeli Third Sector Benjamin Gidron, Michal Bar, Hagai

Katz, 2012-12-06 The First Directory of Israeli Researchers published a few years ago revealed for the first time that there were 48 researchers from 11 disciplines in 14 different academic institutions in this small Middle Eastern country It is not surprising therefore that with such intellectual resources Israel can produce year after year social science research of the highest quality such as this first case study of its Third Sector The three authors each with an impressive record of highly regarded sophisticated empirical research were selected to participate in the first of a series of international comparative

Strategy development in humanitarian NGO positioning and the rise of FCOs Julian J. Rossig, 2016-07-29 As competition over donations for humanitarian aid projects intensifies traditional German NGOs come under additional pressure from an unlikely side A new breed of aggressively expanding market entrants monopolizes distribution channels thus obtaining a significant market share Lacking any own aid projects however these organizations distribute the raised donations to traditional NGOs This unusual set up leaves NGO executives searching for a strategic response While the new competitor's funding is clearly a welcome treat the competitive aspect is much less pleasing This study revisits contemporary approaches to positioning strategy formulation deducing a systematization of fundraising campaign organizations FCOs and offering helpful recommendations for NGO executives

Just Giving Rob Reich, 2020-05-05 The troubling ethics and politics of philanthropy Is philanthropy by its very nature a threat to today's democracy Though we may laud wealthy individuals who give away their money for society's benefit Just Giving shows how such generosity not only isn't the unassailable good we think it to be but might also undermine democratic values Big philanthropy is often an exercise of power the conversion of private assets into public influence And it is a form of power that is largely unaccountable and lavishly tax advantaged Philanthropy currently fails democracy but Rob Reich argues that it can be redeemed Just Giving investigates the ethical and political dimensions of philanthropy and considers how giving might better support democratic values and promote justice

Routledge Handbook of Entrepreneurship in Developing Economies Colin C. Williams, Anjula Gurtoo, 2016-07-22

The Routledge Handbook of Entrepreneurship in Developing Economies is a landmark volume that offers a uniquely comprehensive overview of entrepreneurship in developing countries. Addressing the multi-faceted nature of entrepreneurship, chapters explore a vast range of subject areas including education, economic policy, gender, and the prevalence and nature of informal sector entrepreneurship. In order to understand the process of new venture creation in developing economies, what it means to be engaged in entrepreneurship in a developing world context must be addressed. This handbook does so by exploring the difficulties, risks, and rewards associated with being an entrepreneur and evaluates the impacts of the environment, relationships, performance, and policy dynamics on small and entrepreneurial firms in developing economies. The handbook brings together a unique collection of over forty international researchers who are all actively engaged in studying entrepreneurship in a developing world context. The chapters offer concise but detailed perspectives and explanations on key aspects of the subject across a diverse array of developing economies spanning Africa, Asia, Latin America, and Eastern Europe. In doing so, the chapters highlight the heterogeneity of entrepreneurship in developed economies and contribute to the on-going policy discourses for managing and promoting entrepreneurial growth in the developing world. The book will be of great interest to scholars, students, and policymakers in the areas of development economics, business, and management, public policy, and development studies.

Private Funds, Public Purpose Helmut K. Anheier, Stefan Toepler, 2013-11-11

Comparative information detailing the cultural, legal, and historical environments of foundations in international settings has been scarce until now. Written by scholars from six countries, this text covers philanthropic foundations in the world's busiest commercial centers: the U.S. and Eastern and Western Europe. It reports on the structures and mindsets that shape foundations, gift giving, and discusses different aspects of foundation management. Case studies of the French and Italian foundation communities and a comparative legal chapter are especially notable.

Governance and Regulation in the Third Sector Susan Phillips, Steven Rathgeb Smith, 2011-01-25

Governance and Regulation in the Third Sector brings together scholars and experienced practitioners from different countries to investigate the relationship between regulation and relational governance for the third sector in a comparative context. Each chapter reviews recent regulatory changes in the country in question. To what extent are there significant convergences in these reforms, and what are the implications for the third sector? Is there any evidence that the foundational architecture for a more collaborative relationship between the state and the third sector has been laid? Overall, the book reveals that the reality of the supposedly new collaborative relationships and the impacts of regulatory reform are quite different from what contemporary theories of public management would have us believe. Recognizing the gap between theory and reality, the chapters explore some of the outstanding challenges for regulatory reform for the third sector.

A Path for Chinese Civil Society Jianxing Yu, Jun Zhou, Hua Jiang, 2012-02-12 This book combines empirical research and theoretical discussions to demonstrate that the civil society paradigm as a western concept could be applicable to the study of state society relations in contemporary China However the growth of Chinese civil society does not necessarily present an adversarial or confrontational relationship between state and society but rather it is a cooperative relationship based on common interests and mutual benefits between industrial associations and local governments The findings of this research confirm that in contrast to the conventional civil society model in Western and Eastern Europe where civic organizations are independent of the state challenging the state hegemony Chinese civic organizations however still lack autonomy and even remain closely linked to the state but they are growing and expanding their public space and important role in public affairs through active participation This non western path for civil society development is a precise reflection of reality that is profoundly shaped and constrained by Chinese institutional sociological and cultural context Through close investigation into the industrial organizational and social governance of industrial associations in Wenzhou and in depth analysis of their challenges and developments within the institutional context this book provides fresh empirical evidence and insightful analysis of how industrial associations have actively participated in local industrial governance and conduct of public affairs gained greater space for their development and become indispensable partners of local government in social governance
