The Night is for Hunting John Marsden, 2001 While trying to care for a group of abandoned young children five Australian teenagers continue their struggle for survival and their resistance against the enemy invading their homeland

Children's Literature and the Fin de Siècle Roderick McGillis, 2003-11-30 The close of a century invites both retrospection and prognostication As a period of transition it also brings a sense of uncertainty finality and apocalypticism These feelings stem from various events such as political turmoil scientific advancements and social change As might be expected literature reflects such changes and the feelings they engender But perhaps more surprisingly children's literature is especially sensitive to such matters and fiction for children often struggles with dark and unpleasant issues This book examines fin de siècle tensions in 19th and 20th century children's literature from around the world Each chapter is written by an expert contributor and the volume ranges over a disparate variety of topics These include poetry series books pacifist fiction gender issues religion and literature eco criticism minority experiences humor and the Holocaust fantasy and science fiction and computer culture In exploring these issues in relation to children's literature the contributors reveal the shifting nature of our values and the world in which we live Global in nature the chapters look at children's literature from such places as Germany Holland the United Kingdom Australia and the United States

Cultural Encounters in Translated Children's Literature Helen Frank, 2014-04-08 Cultural Encounters in Translated Children's Literature offers a detailed and innovative model of analysis for examining the complexities of translating children's literature and sheds light on the interpretive choices at work in moving texts from one culture to another The core of the study addresses the issue of how images of a nation locale or country are constructed in translated children's literature with the translation of Australian children's fiction into French serving as a case study Issues examined include the selection of books for translation the relationship between children's books and the national and international publishing industry the packaging of translations and the importance of titles blurbs and covers the linguistic and stylistic features specific to translating for children intertextual references the function of the translation in the target culture didactic and pedagogical aims euphemistic language and explicitation and literariness in translated texts The findings of the case study suggest that the most common constructs of Australia in French translations reveal a preponderance of traditional Eurocentric signifiers that identify Australia with the outback the antipodes the exotic the wild the unknown the void the end of the world the young and innocent nation and the Far West Contemporary signifiers that construct Australia as urban multicultural Aboriginal worldly and inharmonious are seriously under represented The study also shows that French translations are conventional conservative and didactic showing preference for an exotic rather than local specificity with systematic manipulation of Australian referents betraying a perception of Australia as antipodean rural exoticism The significance of the study lies in underscoring the manner in which a given culture is constructed in another cultural milieu especially through translated children s literature

John Marsden's Will Emmeline Garnett, 1998-01-01 John Marsden was a mentally retarded Lancashire gentleman looked after by his aunt When he died his estate passed to George Wright a servant who was given stewardship of the estate This book looks at the legal wrangle which followed Looking for Trouble John Marsden, 1996-11-01 A warm and funny novel from the bestselling author of the Tomorrow series Staying Alive in Year 5 Cool School and Creep Street Australia s king of young adult fiction The Australian Last week Mrs Hazell got us to write a story called The Biggest Disaster I Ever Caused I should have asked for extra time to write it I ve got a feeling that by tomorrow I ll be able to do a whole new version Tony and his friends are seriously bored with their lives They go looking for trouble But when a strange and secretive family move in down the road Tony begins to wonder whether trouble hasn t come looking for him And once trouble finds him it doesn t want to let him go

Australian Children's Books, 1980-2000 Marcie Muir, Kerry White, 2004 All Australian children s books published from 1989 to 2000 are listed in this essential reference for those who appreciate the richness of Australian writing for children Following the same format as volumes 1 and 2 in this series chronicling books published as early as 1774 entries include publishing details the number of illustrations and the awards received for each book This third volume follows the continuing careers of authors such as Mem Fox Bob Graham Robin Klein and Paul Jennings and traces changes in the popularity of Australian themes and settings to identify publishing trends Varied cultural aspects of modern day life are shown from globalization commercialism and the rise of the middle class in Asia to desktop publishing outcome based school curricula and the modern obsession with celebrities all of which are reflected in the type and quantity of books produced by Australian writers and publishers The wealth of included material will extend researchers understanding of the range of Australian children s books

The Night is for Hunting John Marsden, Reading Race Clare Bradford, 2013-05-09 How do children s books relate to the cultures that produce them and how do they influence those cultures In Reading Race Clare Bradford looks at representations of Australia s indigenous peoples in texts for children She shows how these varying representations have helped to colour the attitudes beliefs and assumptions of different generations of Australians To what extent have children s books enabled readers to understand

Aboriginal culture relations between Aboriginal and non Aboriginal people and relationships between Aboriginality and national identity Bradford draws on examples from popular and literary children s books of all genres fiction non fiction picture books and school texts She reveals that many children s books display the tensions and uncertainties inherent in relations between Aboriginal and non Aboriginal people Bradford also uncovers the different ideologies of race that have informed Australian children s texts from the nineteenth century to currently popular writers demonstrating cultural shifts in the representation of Aboriginality over time The result is a ground breaking and intelligent picture of how Australian children s books by both white and Aboriginal writers have negotiated the matter of race Reading Race will enhance the ways in which we come to read and understand the complex and delicate issues around Aboriginal white relations It will be an invaluable resource in the fields of post colonial studies Indigenous and Aboriginal studies literary and cultural studies and children s literature
