Architecture and Freedom Owen Hopkins,2018-04-09 Architects are facing a crisis of agency For decades they have seen their traditional role diminish in scope as more and more of their responsibilities have been taken over by other disciplines within the building construction industry Once upon a time we might have seen the architect as the conductor of the orchestra now he or she is but one cog in a vast and increasingly complex machine In an attempt to find a way out of this crisis there is growing debate about how architects might reassert the importance of their role and influence On one side of this argument are those who believe that architects must refocus their attention on the internal demands of the discipline On the other are those who argue that architects must instead reacquaint themselves with what many still believe to be the discipline's core mission of advancing social progress and promoting the public good and at the same time the scope of their traditional disciplinary remit At root this question is fundamentally about freedom about whether architects still possess it if they have ever done and whether it is possible to find the professional disciplinary and individual autonomy to be able to

Beyond Buildings J. Donald Ragsdale, 2014-03-25 Beyond Buildings Designed Spaces as Visual Persuasion is an assessment of the visual persuasiveness of designed spaces It demonstrates that these spaces are as socially influential as speeches or advertisements are and that an awareness of this influence provides an insight into the cultural roles of designed spaces The book considers a diverse array of spaces ranging from pleasure gardens and parks to city parks and cities themselves and includes assessments of the visual impact of national parks zoological gardens amusement parks battlefields and monuments and the interior spaces of buildings Beyond Buildings is an extension of theories of persuasion and visual communication to landscape architecture and interior design The book bases its assessments on the elements of visual literacy as well as the elements of landscape and interior design to show that such designed spaces as gardens parks battlefields and cities affect the viewer in such a way as to have social impact
