

A Sound of Thunder

INTRODUCTION

BRIEF BIOGRAPHY OF Ray Bradbury

Bradbury spent his childhood in Chicago. After the family moved west from Los Angeles to Santa Monica, California, in 1930, a mutual reader, Bradbury's mother's teacher, showed him the gift of Dr. Who, a magazine about science fiction. Bradbury went into science fiction writing, and even the editor of the magazine, the pulp Heavy Metal, helped to bring Bradbury's stories to the public. In 1940, just before the United States entered World War II, Bradbury was not allowed to fly over Japan and managed to escape what was under flying the war. Bradbury's introduction to the science fiction magazine Amazing came in 1947. That was also the year Bradbury's first science fiction story was published. Bradbury's first daughter, Bradbury published her own novel, Forever (2012), in 2012. The book, which was awarded with a Pulitzer, won the first science fiction award in the world. Bradbury also wrote science fiction and nonfiction about the future, including his own works. His science fiction works are inspiring other writers. Bradbury repeatedly won awards throughout his life. Bradbury died in 2012, at the age of 91, after a long illness. Bradbury's work is still being read and studied by many people.
