A. Cohen, Wharton School. Department of Decision Sciences, 1979* Rendering UML Class Diagrams to Support Layout Design Paul Joseph Leyden, 2019 This thesis investigates and implements mechanisms to render and layout software design models that are reverse engineered from software systems The software design models are represented as Unified Modeling Language UML class diagrams UML diagrams are widely used by software developers to document the design of software systems The work presented here extends a software system srcUML that takes source code as input and generates a graphical picture of the UML class diagram The system is built on top of the srcML infrastructure This infrastructure parses the source code and provides access to the abstract syntax for the analysis necessary to generate the UML class diagram The main contribution of the work presented is extending the system to support various layout algorithms for the class diagrams The extension allows users to provide their own customized layout algorithms to the system This directly supports research in software comprehension by allowing comparison between different layout algorithms No current UML rendering tools allow different custom layout algorithms to be used The system is open source and available at www.srcML.org

UML 2 Bible Tom Pender, 2003-09 Market_Desc Programmers who wish to understand the work products of analysis and design Designers who want a formal tool for design Analysts who want to learn how to communicate more effectively with business and technical team members and clients Project Leads And Managers who want to understand the tools available to facilitate quality communication and specification of software requirements Maintenance Teams and Managers who wish to improve the overall quality and timeliness of their product support Special Features Up to date coverage including both the 1.4 and 2.0 UML specifications Focuses on executable UML meaning the UML diagrams are the code rather than viewing the diagrams as a necessary evil to complete before coding Covers testing of UML diagrams rather than leaving all testing until the application is coded About The Book The UML is an industry standard specification for modeling visualizing and documenting software projects You can think of UML as the equivalent of blueprints in a manufacturing metaphor By applying UML developers can decrease the high probability of failure that plagues large application development projects while improving quality Extending the construction metaphor the growing concept of executable UML is analogous to computer aided manufacturing settings where the blueprint for a product actually drives the machines

Blood Bank Regulations K. R. Gregory, R. B. Biehl, 2005-01-01 Preserving the Spatial Information of Accessible UML Class Diagrams for the Visually Impaired Silva Hekmat Matti, 2017 One of the aspects that still needs to be fully accessible to persons with Visual Impairments or Blindness is programming and software engineering as a profession UML diagrams are still an area to be improved when it comes to accessibility How to make these diagrams more available What kind of representation is more proper and efficient This exploratory research suggests a scheme to navigate UML class diagram with focus on presenting spatial information with related alternative text In this research we try to find whether the suggested methodology is helping programmers and students with visual impairment in identifying and reading class diagrams more efficiently and if they can build a cognitive map of the diagram For testing and improving the suggested navigation scheme we built a prototype and designed a study We found that the navigational scheme is helping to find different connections and relations easily but reaching a specific point with a jump or search function is needed Also the participant were able to build a cognitive map of the class components This research is targeting a very specific user demography which includes persons with visual impairment who want to pursue Software Engineering as a profession or persons who would have some classes in programming Abstract
