Networks Kurt Geihs,Wolfgang König,Falk von Westarp,2012-12-06 New information and communication technologies unquestionably brought about enormous changes that resulted in an ever increasing networked society Indeed there is no area in the social and economic world which is unaffected by the recent advances In response to these changes scientists from numerous disciplines teamed up in 1997 to lay a foundation for a common theory of networks. The objective was to gain a deeper understanding of the mechanisms behind social, economic, technical, and other kinds of networks in order to develop a unified theory of networks. Such a theory would then guide public and private decisions concerning the planning, operations, and controlling of all kinds of networks. The contributions in this book represent the first steps toward this ambitious goal.

Questions to Ask Interviewers - English Navneet Singh, Here are some questions you can ask interviewers during an interview. Can you tell me more about the day to day responsibilities of this role? What does success look like in this position and how is it measured? Can you describe the team I'll be working with and how we collaborate? What are the biggest challenges facing the team/department right now and how do you envision this role helping to address them? What opportunities are there for professional development and growth within the company? How would you describe the company culture and values? What is the typical career path for someone in this role? Can you walk me through the company's goals and priorities for the next few years? How does the company support work-life balance for its employees? Can you provide examples of recent projects or initiatives the team has worked on? What do you enjoy most about working for this company? Is there anything about my background or experience that concerns you regarding this role? Remember asking insightful questions not only helps you gather important information about the company and role but also demonstrates your interest and engagement in the opportunity.
