How the poet Robert Duncan and the artist Jess made the household part of their separate and collaborative creative practice I m a householder the poet Robert Duncan once explained My whole idea of being able to work was to have a household In this book Tara McDowell examines the household physical and conceptual that Duncan established with the artist Jess beginning in 1951

when the two men exchanged marriage vows and ending with Duncan's death in 1988. For Duncan and Jess, the household rather than the studio gallery or collective provided the support structure for their art. Indeed, McDowell argues convincingly their work was coextensive with their household. The material surroundings of their house in San Francisco and the daily rhythms of their domestic lives became part of their creative practice. Duncan wrote poetry that is romantic, ornate, and obscure. Jess, born Burgess Franklin Collins, created multi-imaged complex collages and assemblages. McDowell explores their life and work, reading Duncan and Jess with and against each other in alignment and misalignment. She examines their illustrated book Caesar's Gate, a collaborative effort that led them to reject collaboration, considers each man's lifelong preoccupation with an unfinished project, Jess's Narkissos and Duncan's The H D Book, and discusses their origin myths and self-made genealogies describing them as a form of witness in the face of the calamities of the twentieth century. Duncan and Jess made the household a necessary precondition for their art making. Doing so, they reclaimed and rehabilitated the domestic from which gay couples were traditionally excluded for their own uses. The household permitted them to reimagine the world. McDowell's portrait of a couple expands to encompass broader issues urgent in midcentury America and still resonant today: belonging and kinship, alienation and catastrophe.

The Historical Contexts and Contemporary Uses of Mass Observation Lucy D. Curzon, Benjamin Jones, 2024-10-17. The Historical Contexts and Contemporary Uses of Mass Observation embraces new approaches and themes that highlight Mass Observation's long history as an innovative research organization, a social movement, and an archival project. Spanning the period from Mass Observation's inception to the present day, essay authors discuss a wide range of topics including anthropology, history, popular politics, cultural studies, literature, selfhood, emotion, art, and visual studies. Indeed, what emerges across this volume is confirmation that engagement with Mass Observation, whether its historical materials or those produced in the last decade, is crucial to understanding the vast array of experiences that make up British life.

The Routledge Handbook of Heritage and Gender Jenna C. Ashton, 2025-05-30. The Routledge Handbook of Heritage and Gender offers an exceptional range of international contributions that interrogate and analyse the interactions within and between heritage and gender. Taking an intersectional and global approach, the Handbook opens up space for a more critical and situated consideration of how gender comes into contact with heritage as a concept and practice. The volume considers heritage in the broadest sense as a concept, performance, and materialisation. The contributions also consider how heritage impacts identity, power, people, values, politics, and ethics, as well as processes and sites across material culture, nature, and intangible practices. The volume and its contributions are inclusive of cisgender, trans, non-binary, agender, and intersex identities. Reflecting the multidisciplinary and transnational voices of its authors, the collection challenges readers to consider what a focused analysis of heritage and gender can offer heritage studies as an evolving discipline and field of study. The Routledge Handbook of Heritage and Gender will be of interest to academics and students working in Heritage Studies, Museum Studies, Art History, History,
