System Maintenance

Restart system...

The Restart Wizard notifies logged-on users, shuts down the system after a specified time, and quiesces the system. While the system is quiesced, you can perform maintenance operations such as making changes to the metadata, republishing budget forms, or restarting individual web applications; in other words, operations during which you do not want users to be logged on.

Quiesce system...

The Quiesce system option provides a mechanism by which you can quiesce the system (temporarily put the system into an inactive state). When the system is quiesced, users who are currently logged on can continue to work within the system, but user logon capabilities are temporarily disabled.

Do not close your browser or otherwise end your session while the system is quiesced. If you do, you will not be able to log on again, and you will need to restart the Java application server.
