Policing and Boundaries in a Violent Society Guy Lamb, 2022-01-31 This book explores how social and territorial boundaries have influenced the approaches and practices of the South Africa Police Service SAPS. By means of a historical analysis of South Africa, this book introduces a new concept: police frontierism, which illuminates the nature of the relationships between the police, policing, and boundaries and can potentially be used for future case study research. Drawing on a wealth of research, this book examines how social and territorial boundaries strongly influenced police practices and behaviour in South Africa and how social delineations amplify and distort existing police prejudices against those communities on the other side of the boundary. Focusing on cases of high density police operations, public order policing, and the recent policing of the COVID 19 lockdown, this book argues that poor economic conditions combined with an increased militarisation of the SAPS and a decline in public trust in the police will result in boundaries continuing to fundamentally inform police work in South Africa. This book will be of interest to scholars and students interested in policing in post colonial societies characterised by high levels of violence, as well as police work and police militarization.

Police Integrity in South Africa Sanja Kutnjak Ivkovich, Adri Sauerman, 2020-04-29 Policing in South Africa has gained notoriety through its extensive history of oppressive law enforcement. In 1994, as the country's apartheid system was replaced with a democratic order, the new government faced the significant challenge of transforming the South African police force into a democratic police agency: the South African Police Service (SAPS), that would provide unbiased policing to all the country's people. More than two decades since the initiation of the reforms, it appears that the SAPS has rapidly developed a reputation as a police agency beset by challenges to its integrity. This book offers a unique perspective by providing in-depth analyses of police integrity in South Africa. It is a case study that systematically and empirically explores the contours of police integrity in a young democracy. Using the organizational theory of police integrity, the book analyzes the complex set of historical, legal, political, social, and economic circumstances shaping police integrity. A discussion of the theoretical framework is accompanied by the results of a nationwide survey of nearly 900 SAPS officers probing their familiarity with official rules, their expectations of discipline within the SAPS, and their willingness to report misconduct. The book also examines the influence of the respondents' race, gender, and supervisory status on police integrity. Written in a clear and direct style, this book will appeal to students and scholars of criminology, policing, sociology, political science, as well as to police administrators interested in expanding their knowledge about police integrity and enhancing it in their organizations.

The Truth about Crime Jean Comaroff, John L. Comaroff, 2016-12-05 This new book by the well-known anthropologists Jean and John L. Comaroff explores the global preoccupation with criminality in the early twenty-first century, a preoccupation strikingly disproportionate in most places and for most people to the risks posed by lawlessness to the conduct of everyday life. Ours is an epoch in which law-making, law-breaking, and law enforcement are ever more critical registers in which societies construct contest and confront truths about themselves an epoch in which criminology broadly defined has displaced sociology as the privileged means by which the social world knows itself They also argue that as the result of a tectonic shift in the triangulation of capital the state and governance the meanings attached to crime and with it the nature of policing have undergone significant change also that there has been a palpable muddying of the lines between legality and illegality between corruption and conventional business even between crime and policing which exist nowadays in ever greater hyphenated complicity Thinking through Crime and Policing is therefore an excursion into the contemporary Order of Things or rather into the metaphysic of disorder that saturates the late modern world indeed has become its leitmotif It is also a meditation on sovereignty and citizenship on civility class and race on the law and its transgression on the political economy of representation

Urban Climate Justice Jennifer L. Rice, Joshua Long, Anthony Levenda, 2023-05 Arguing that climate injustice is one of our most pressing urban problems this volume explores the possibilities and challenges for more just urban futures under climate change Whether the situation be displacement within cities through carbon gentrification or the increasing securitization of elite spaces for climate protection climate justice and urban justice are intimately connected Contributors to the volume build theoretical tools for interrogating the root causes of climate change as well as policy failures They also highlight knowledge produced within communities already seeking transformative change and demonstrate meaningful learning from activist groups working to address the socionatural injustices caused by the impact of climate change The editors introduction situates our current climate emergency within historical processes of colonization racial capitalism and heteropatriarchy while the editors conclusion offers pathways forward through abolition care and reparations Where other books focus on the project of critique this collection advances real world politics to help academics practitioners and social justice groups imagine create and enact more just urban futures under climate change

Nutrition-sensitive social protection programs within food systems Olney, Deanna K., Gelli, Aulo, Kumar, Neha, Alderman, Harold, Go, Ara, Raza, Ahmed, Owens, Jessica, Grinspun, Alejandro, Bhalla, Garima, Benammour, Omar, 2021-09-28 Investments in social assistance programs SAPs in low and middle income countries LMICs are increasing As investments increase the objectives of these programs are expanding from focusing on reducing poverty to addressing other social issues such as improving diets and nutrition At the same time there is increasing interest in addressing all forms of malnutrition within the framework of food systems Given the intersections between SAPs and food systems we reviewed the effectiveness of SAPs agriculture asset transfers cash transfers in kind transfers vouchers public works and school meals programs for reducing all forms of malnutrition across the lifecycle within a food systems framework As several programs included multiple treatment arms each representing a unique program design we used study arm as the unit of analysis and assessed the proportion of study arms with positive or negative program impacts on diet and nutrition outcomes among men women and children The majority of the studies included in this review were from evaluations of agriculture asset cash and in kind transfer programs There was clear evidence of positive impacts on women s and children s diet related outcomes Very few studies assessed program impact on women s nutritional status outcomes However there was some evidence of impacts on increasing body mass index and hemoglobin concentration Hb with in kind transfer programs Among children several study arms across the agriculture asset cash and in kind transfer programs found positive impacts on increasing height for age Z score 33% 45% of study arms and weight for height Z score 33% 50% of study arms and decreasing the prevalence of wasting 43% 60% of study arms Cash and in kind transfer programs also found positive effects on reducing stunting prevalence in 33% and 45% of study arms respectively Lastly a few study arms assessed program impact on increasing Hb with some evidence of positive impacts in in kind and school feeding programs There was a paucity of relevant evidence of the effectiveness of voucher and public works programs on diet and nutrition outcomes for men s outcomes and on micronutrient status Several challenges remain in understanding the potential for SAPs to improve diet and nutrition outcomes within food systems including the heterogeneity of program and evaluation designs populations targeted by the programs and included in evaluations and indicators used to assess impact Addressing these challenges in future evaluations is important for informing program and policy actions to improve the effectiveness of SAPs within food systems for improving diet and nutrition outcomes across the lifecycle
