The Columbia Guide to Contemporary African American Fiction Darryl Dickson-Carr, 2005-12-06 In both the literal and metaphorical senses it seemed as if 1970s America was running out of gas The decade not only witnessed long lines at gas stations but a citizenry that had grown weary and disillusioned High unemployment runaway inflation and the energy crisis caused in part by U S dependence on Arab oil characterized an increasingly bleak economic situation As Edward D Berkowitz demonstrates the end of the postwar economic boom Watergate and defeat in Vietnam led to an unraveling of the national consensus During the decade ideas about the United States how it should be governed and how its economy should be managed changed dramatically Berkowitz argues that the postwar faith in sweeping social programs and a global U S mission was replaced by a more skeptical attitude about government's ability to positively affect society From Woody Allen to Watergate from the decline of the steel industry to the rise of Bill Gates and from Saturday Night Fever to the Sunday morning fervor of evangelical preachers Berkowitz captures the history tone and spirit of the seventies He explores the decade's major political events and movements including the rise and fall of détente congressional reform changes in healthcare policies and the hostage crisis in Iran The seventies

significances of food and eating in American fiction from 1980 to the present day She argues that culturally coded representations of the culinary illuminate contemporary American anxieties about class gender race tradition immigration nationhood and history As she offers a critical analysis of major works of contemporary fiction Piatti Farnell unveils contrasting modes of culinary nostalgia disillusionment and progress that pervasively address the cultural disintegration of local and familiar culinary values in favor of globalized economies of consumption In identifying different incarnations of the American culinary Piatti Farnell covers the depiction of food in specific categories of American fiction and explores how the cultural separation that molds food preferences inevitably challenges the existence of a homogenous American identity The study treads on new grounds since it not only provides the first comprehensive study of food and consumption in contemporary American fiction but also aims to expose interrelated politics of consumption in a variety of authors from different ethnic cultural racial and social backgrounds within the United States

The SAGE Encyclopedia of African Cultural Heritage in North America Mwalimu J. Shujaa, Kenya J. Shujaa, 2015-07-13 The Encyclopedia of African Cultural Heritage in North America provides an accessible ready reference on the retention and continuity of African culture within the United States Our conceptual framework holds first that culture is a form of self knowledge and knowledge about self in the world as transmitted from one person to another Second that African people continuously create their own cultural history as they move through time and space Third that African descended people living outside of Africa are also contributors to and participate in the creation of African cultural history Entries focus on illuminating Africanisms cultural retentions traceable to an African origin and cultural continuities ongoing practices and processes through which African culture continues to be created and formed Thus the focus is more culturally specific and less concerned with the broader transatlantic demographic political and geographic issues that are the focus of similar recent reference works We also focus less on biographies of individuals and political and economic ties and more on processes and manifestations of African cultural heritage and continuity

Signs and Cities Madhu Dubey, 2007-11-01 Signs and Cities is the first book to consider what it means to speak of a postmodern moment in African American literature Dubey argues that for African American studies postmodernity best names a period beginning in the early 1970s marked by acute disenchantment with the promises of urban modernity and of print literacy Dubey shows how black novelists from the last three decades have reconsidered the modern urban legacy and thus articulated a distinctly African American strain of postmodernism She argues that novelists such as Octavia Butler Samuel Delany Toni Morrison Gloria Naylor Ishmael Reed Sapphire and John Edgar Wideman probe the disillusionment of urban modernity through repeated recourse to tropes of the book and scenes of reading and writing Ultimately she demonstrates that these writers view the book with profound ambivalence construing it as an urban medium that cannot recapture the face to face communities assumed by oral and folk forms of expression

Drifting on a Read Michael Jarrett, 1999-02-25 For almost a century writers such as Ralph Ellison Michael Ondaatje and Ishmael Reed have expressed an affinity for jazz hearing the music as a model for writing Michael Jarrett examines their work and the work of others who have brought jazz into language pushing interpretation into the realm of invention

Spirituality as Ideology in Black Women's Film and Literature Judylyn S. Ryan, 2005 Given the ways in which spirituality functions in the work of such Black women writers and filmmakers as Toni Morrison Ntozake Shange Maya Angelou Julie Dash and Euzhan Palcy Judylyn Ryan proposes in this challenging new study that what these women embrace in their narrative construction and characterization is the role and responsibility of the priestess bearing and distributing life force to sustain the community of people who read and view their work Central to these women's vision of transformation is what Ryan calls a paradigm of growth and an ethos of interconnectedness which provide interpretive models for examining and teaching a broad range of artistic cultural and social texts The focus on theology provides a new way of viewing the connections among New World African diaspora religious traditions challenging the widespread and reductive assumption that Afro Christianity shares no philosophical commonalities with Santeria Candomble Voodoo and other traditions that are not christological In addition to exploring spirituality as epistemology the book also provides an intertextual reading of Black women's literary and film texts that examines the ways in which these works expose mediate and interpret the cultural social and historical conditions surrounding their production While most discussions of Black women's engagement with and contribution to the discursive space of the culture assume an oppositional or reactive stance Ryan argues that the disposition reflected in the texts she examines tends to be relational and proactive conferring an autonomy that the gravitational pull between opposites lacks This intertextual reading constitutes a multimedia auteur criticism of a collective artistic vision

Women's Work Courtney Thorsson, 2013-06-17 In Women's Work Courtney Thorsson reconsiders the gender genre and geography of African American nationalism as she explores the aesthetic history of African American writing by women Building on and departing from the Black Arts Movement the literary fiction of such writers as Toni Cade Bambara Paule Marshall Gloria Naylor Ntozake Shange and Toni Morrison employs a cultural nationalism practiced by their characters as women's work that defines a distinct contemporary literary movement demanding attention to the continued relevance of nation in post Black Arts writing Identifying five forms of women's work as organizing dancing mapping cooking and inscribing Thorsson shows how these writers reclaimed and revised cultural nationalism to hail African America

Cauldron of Changes Janice C. Crosby, 2023-10-26 The spiritual dimensions in the fantastic works of both firmly established and newer writers including such talents as Marion Zimmer Bradley Alice Walker Patricia Kennealy Octavia Butler Toni Morrison and Ntozake Shange are examined in this book The author links their fantastic novels to actual currents within the feminist spirituality movement addressing the genre's use of goddess worship, psychic phenomena, and reverence for the earth. Special emphasis is given to both the struggle to provide an alternative to men-centered experience and to the need to articulate ways in which feminists can achieve personal and social power.
