Farewell, Damascus Ghada Samman, 2017-10-16 Ghada Samman's most recent novel Farewell Damascus is set in early 1960s Damascus a city that now languishes in the grip of corruption and political oppression following the Baathist takeover in Syria. The book opens as Zain Khayyal a university student and aspiring young writer plots an early morning escape from her house as her husband slumbers. Her mission to get an illicit abortion plans for which she's divulged to no one and to announce that she wants out of her stifling marriage. A rebel and a trail blazer par excellence Zain draws down the wrath of polite society and the authorities political and religious alike as she challenges attitudes and practices that demean rather than dignify and a ruling regime that sucks the life out of both oppressed and oppressor. As the plot unfolds Zain finds her way as a student to a neighbouring country which though it grants her the freedom respect and appreciation she had lacked in her homeland becomes a place of anguished exile. Armed with her accustomed humour pathos and knack for suspense Samman fearlessly tackles issues that roil societies across the globe to this day the stigma that attaches to the divorced woman but not the divorced man whether to choose a life partner for love or for social status prestige and material security whether abortion is a crime or a means of forestalling needless undeserved suffering lesbian intimacy as a declaration of freedom from male abuse and tyranny rape as an instrument of humiliation and subjugation and unconditional acceptance as healing balm. Farewell Damascus is both a paean to a beloved homeland and an ode to human dignity.

Wished Lissa Evans, 2022-04-07 Ed and his sister Roo are faced with the most boring half term holiday in history five days spent in the company of their elderly neighbour Miss Filey and her ancient smelly cat. But when they find a box of birthday candles in a cupboard in Miss Filey's house their world is changed completely. These are no ordinary candles every single one of them comes with a wish. There's only one problem some of those wishes actually belong to someone else.

How to Write an Essay, Grades 6-8 Gabriel Arquilevich, 1999-10 The purpose of this book is to teach students how to write a five paragraph essay and to demonstrate the creativity and fun involved in essay writing. Years of Sadness Anyi Wang, 2011-03-31 This anthology focuses on autobiographical works by Wang Anyi the most prolific and critically acclaimed woman writer in contemporary China highlighting a personal and emotional dimension of her writing that is essential to a deeper understanding of her creativity and productivity. The three pieces selected for this volume A Woman Writer's Sense of Self Utopian Verses and Years of Sadness explore some of the most fundamental and complex issues concerning Wang's identity as a woman and as a writer in early post socialist China the creative and emotional challenges she faced during her sojourn in the United States in the early 1980s and her memories of adolescent years a period of obsession uncertainty and loneliness during the Cultural Revolution. Forty Ways to Think About Architecture Iain Borden, Murray Fraser, Barbara Penner, 2015-03-11 How do we think about architecture historically and theoretically? Forty Ways to Think about Architecture provides an introduction to some of the wide ranging ways in which architectural history and theory are being approached today The inspiration for this project is the work of Adrian Forty Professor of Architectural History at the Bartlett School of Architecture University College London UCL who has been internationally renowned as the UK's leading academic in the discipline for 40 years Forty's many publications notably Objects of Desire 1986 Words and Buildings 2000 and Concrete and Culture 2012 have been crucial to opening up new approaches to architectural history and theory and have helped to establish entirely new areas of study His teaching at The Bartlett has enthused a new generation about the exciting possibilities of architectural history and theory as a field This collection takes in a total of 40 essays covering key subjects ranging from memory and heritage to everyday life building materials and city spaces As well as critical theory philosophy literature and experimental design it refers to more immediate and topical issues in the built environment such as globalisation localism regeneration and ecologies Concise and engaging entries reflect on architecture from a range of perspectives Contributors include eminent historians and theorists from elsewhere such as Jean Louis Cohen Briony Fer Hilde Heynen Mary McLeod Griselda Pollock Penny Sparke and Anthony Vidler as well as Forty's colleagues from the Bartlett School of Architecture including Iain Borden Murray Fraser Peter Hall Barbara Penner Jane Rendell and Andrew Saint Forty Ways to Think about Architecture also features contributions from distinguished architects such as Tony Fretton Jeremy Till and Sarah Wigglesworth and well known critics and architectural writers such as Tom Dyckhoff William Menking and Thomas Weaver Many of the contributors are former students of Adrian Forty Through these diverse essays readers are encouraged to think about how architectural history and theory relates to their own research and design practices thus using the work of Adrian Forty as a catalyst for fresh and innovative thinking about architecture as a subject

Illusions of a Love Story Nadia Aidan, 2008-10 SHE FALLS INTO THE DEPTHS OF SILENTNESS She wrote her love story and finally let it go She set it in the hands of fate which is something one does not often do No words need to be followed for those words will not mean anything in a realm of time that just stands still Living and learning from the blindness of the unknown she followed and trusted the spirits to bring the guidance of teachings into her reality She remembers coming to a place many years ago finding the strength within after all the pain and suffering that occurred Letting go of all internally and externally to do what she came here to do She listened to and believed in her guidance to have a conversation with one which changed the person she used to be into the person she needed to be The words that follow are only the words she feels and knows in her heart She learned from the one the most powerful lessons in reality basing happiness on another attachment letting go ego desires and being in the present moment of now The love that stood strong for one showed the love was eternally true

Hudson River Bracketed Edith Wharton,2025-01-01T09:01:00Z Nineteen year old Vance Weston has grown up in the fictional Midwestern town of Euphoria Illinois Though under pressure to join his father in real estate Vance aspires to be a poet After falling ill just as he is supposed to choose his profession he convalesces for a while at home until a doctor suggests time away in a better climate would aid his recovery Vance chooses to stay with relatives the Tracys in a small town not far from New York City his hope is that he might be able to visit the latter during his stay and get his foot in the door of the literary world The Tracys are caretakers for an old house owned by the much wealthier Spear family Vance accompanies his cousins to the house which is in the titular Hudson River Bracketed architectural style In its library he meets a young woman from the Spear family Heloise known as Halo This chance encounter is the first in a series of coincidences that will enable Vance s writerly dreams to take shape Hudson River Bracketed differs from most of Edith Wharton s novels in that its protagonist is both male and materially disadvantaged Having distanced the main character from her own life in these two respects Wharton allowed herself it s widely thought to be more freely autobiographical in portraying her experiences as a fledgling novelist The novel is generally appreciated not so much for the depth of its characters which one contemporary reviewer in the New Statesman said resembled marionettes but for the light it sheds on Wharton s own creative process of fiction writing and her attitude towards the mercenary side of publishing including the exploitation of new writers as a commercial strategy Also notably explored are the many human factors that affect the awarding of literary prizes like the Pulitzer Prize for Fiction which Wharton won in 1921 for The Age of Innocence and which explicitly appears in the novel as the Pulsifer Prize Other themes of the book are the effects of social class and material resources on literary achievement religious and publishing trends marriage and divorce and the majesty of the natural environment in particular the Hudson River Valley In connection with this last focus scholar Judith Saunders has also argued that the book is an extended meditation on the poem Kubla Khan by Samuel Taylor Coleridge which is the subject of Vance and Halo s first verbal exchange Hudson River Bracketed was first serialized without Wharton s permission in 1928 resulting in a frenzied rush to finish it which biographers speculate may have contributed to the illnesses of her final years The novel was published in its entirety in 1929 when Wharton was 67 It s her longest novel and among the five she consistently listed as her favorites within her oeuvre Biographer R W B Lewis reports her having said I am sure it is my best book Critics and readers didn t agree it has never been popular However even its detractors admire her rich descriptions of the Hudson River Valley setting Wharton published a sequel to Hudson River Bracketed in 1932 five years before her death at 75 This book is part of the Standard Ebooks project which produces free public domain ebooks      Four Sue Grafton Novels Sue Grafton,2009-12-01
