

Have you ever wondered how it is possible to keep television programs on the airwaves? The answer is a commercial, an irritating thirty second long volume-raising video work which give you the incredible urge to press the MUTE button on your remote control. Most Americans feel that commercials are always written poorly and have little effect on their choices they make as a consumer. Every once in a while, you can find a commercial that is one of value; a piece that is stimulating to the mind. Much of the time the producers of these "good" commercials use a literary device. In this article, I will explain the positive and negative aspects of having commercials between TV shows.

First of all, there are quite a few commercials that are written well, although we don't know it. These commercials use metaphor, humor, parody, and seriousness as a major part of the script for the commercial. In my opinion, commercials that are significant are ones that use these literary devices. A lot of commercials that end up staying on the air for long periods of time are usually ones that have a popular purpose or a quality-recognized product. Only commercials that have a general but serious purpose, for example, the 1970's commercial with the Native American in the canoe is representative of the effects of pollution in the USA. Only commercials similar to this should be used as commercials.
