Checking for sense

Challenge and mastery ideas

- Ensure that children are reading each word accurately when reading aloud.
- Check that the children have understood what they read by making a statement that they can agree or disagree with, for example: I think the boy was scared when he got in the boat. Use this as a basis for any further teaching of misconceptions about language or for general comprehension.
- Use sentences with red herring words, such as those on page 7 of the Workbook, to check that the children are monitoring their reading and can think about what they are reading as they read.
- Write sentences and non-sentences for the children to read. Help them understand why a non-sentence (such as, I can see wild) does not make sense. Work together to create a sentence that makes sense.
- Children need to be reading at least 90 words per minute. Use Fluency Test 1 in the Skills Test Papers to work out children's reading speed. (See page 23 for advice about fluency.)
- Children need to monitor what they read to become fluent readers. Often, as children gain reading speed they lose accuracy. Encourage children to look ahead as they read so they can start to think about what words are coming next. Watch for children's eyes flicking ahead as they read.

Review

- Listen to the children as they read a passage with tricky language (for example an excerpt from 'Dark is fun' from The Owl Who Was Afraid of the Dark by Jill Tomlinson). Ensure that the children think carefully about what they're reading as they read (for example, ask: Why does Pop fall out of the tree? What has happened to Scumbo? Why is the boy sitting by the fire? What is the not-poly pudding?)

Watch and listen

- Listen for children who can read fluently and accurately.
- Listen for children who can accurately discuss the content of what they have read, picking up on easily missed details.
- Watch for children who can concentrate on what they are reading and can become absorbed in the text.
- Watch for children who can accurately spot errors in their own and classmates' writing, correcting any errors they find.

Poetter, Jennifer Pierson, Chelsea Caivano, Shawn Stanley, Sherry Hughes, 2013-12-16 This book is an attempt to show that preservice teacher knowledge is substantive and should be part of the wider database of knowledge about teaching and learning in the field of teacher education From the perspectives of five prospective teacher interns and a teacher educator this volume brings the experiences of students conducting research during preservice teacher education to life Charged to conduct a semester long study in the school the intern authors studied classroom scenes and their own work and wrote case studies depicting their experiences Their pieces in their entirety compose the central chapters of the book and serve as examples of preservice teacher research The surrounding chapters examine the interns experiences of conducting research during their preservice internship year primarily from the perspective of a teacher educator who studied them and the scene throughout the experience The teacher educator examines the interns approaches to research and the processes they employed to conduct and complete their studies the interns professional growth as a result of their participation in the study and the impact the project had on the program This book fills the gaps that exist in the present literature on the use of teacher research during preservice by including the inquiry works of preservice teachers as examples of legitimate important preliminary research in their own rights and by addressing the complex issues of conducting this type of study during preservice from multiple perspectives not just that of the university researcher While some texts include the perspectives of students and even include portions of students own work this text takes the step of co authorship sharing the academic discourse with intern teachers who have produced experience and knowledge that are informative for the field of education as a whole and specifically for teacher education The text attempts to combine many voices into one thorough narrative approach ultimately urging the reader to consider the possibilities of teacher research for advancing knowledge in the field and for enhancing the professional development of the participants
