Understanding Emergent Urbanism Sotir Dhamo,2021-08-31 The ideas presented in this book are a conceptual leverage to correct the rigidity of top down practices and bring the real city or the city of everyday life closer to the city of conventional planning Considering self organization as the starting point at the base of complex systems this book tries to understand how specific qualities emerge and evolve from this behavior For this the book discusses new ways of looking at and understanding cities by applying holistic methods and approaches based on the conceptual grounds of quantum fractal and complexity theories The book highlights the fact that the information on how to transform and build a city is contained within the city itself In this regard some methodological steps to unpack complexities and translate the essential qualities of space into potential generators for city design and planning are provided The book urges courageous experimentation and proposes a methodology where the computational nature of urban phenomena goes along with historic anthropological ideas thus emphasizing the characteristics of a specific reality in a model They do not exclude each other in fact they are part of the unbroken web of wholeness Importantly the proposed methodology supports gradual and natural coevolution process in the city through combining planned and unplanned actions and the involving multiplicity of actors impacting on Urban Planning and Design Practice Informality through Sustainability Antonino Di Raimo,Steffen Lehmann,Alessandro Melis,2020-12-30 Informality through Sustainability explores the phenomenon of informality within urban settlements and aims to unravel the subtle links between informal settlements and sustainability Penetrating its global profile and considering urban informality through an understanding of local implications the authors collectively reveal specific correlations between sites and their local inhabitants The book opposes simplistic calls to legalise informal settlements or to view them as problems to be solved It comes at a time when common notions of informality are being increasingly challenged In 25 chapters the book presents contributions from well known scholars and practitioners whose theoretical or practical work addresses informality and sustainability at various levels from city planning and urban design to public space and architectural education Whilst previous studies on informal settlements have mainly focused on cases in developing countries approaching the topic through social cultural and material dimensions the book explores the concept across a range of contexts including former Communist countries and those in the so called Global North Contributions also explore understandings of informality at various scalar levels region precinct neighbourhood and individual building Thus this work helps reposition informality as a relational concept at various scales of urbanisation This book will be of great benefit to planners architects researchers and policymakers interested in the interplay between informality and sustainability

The Case for the Humanities Eric Touya de Marenne, 2016-12-01 Countering the perception that the humanities are unessential this volume contends that their well being has not only academic but also cultural political and existential ramifications Our technologically driven world possesses the means of its own destruction while economic and financial policies undermine the very existence of our democracy At the same time the postmodern and post human age fundamentally challenges our ability and legitimacy to conceive future ideals It is within this context that the humanities provide essential paths through which the teaching and knowledge of other academic fields such as STEM and economics must be re envisioned In short the humanities must be brought back to the center of academic life The political and pedagogical implications of this interdisciplinary study thus entail a renewed critique to rethink the relation between higher education society and the world at large politically economically scientifically and technologically and the importance of the humanities within it At the heart of this reconsideration the humanities and humanity s fate and future become one

Spatial Theories for the Americas Fernando Luiz Lara, 2024-11-19 To study the built environment of the Americas is to wrestle with an inherent contradiction While the disciplines of architecture urban design landscape and planning share the fundamental belief that space and place matter the overwhelming majority of canonical knowledge and the vernacular used to describe these disciplines comes from another very different continent With this book Fernando Luiz Lara discusses several theories of space drawing on cartography geography anthropology and mostly architecture and proposes counterweights to five centuries of Eurocentrism The first part of Spatial Theories for the Americas offers a critique of Eurocentrism in the discipline of architecture problematizing its theoretical foundation in relation to the inseparability of modernization and colonization The second part makes explicit the insufficiencies of a hegemonic Western tradition at the core of spatial theories by discussing a long list of authors who have thought about the Americas To overcome centuries of Eurocentrism Lara concludes will require a tremendous effort but nonetheless we have the responsibility of looking at the built environment of the Americas through our own lenses Spatial Theories for the Americas proposes a fundamental step in that direction

A Cross-Cultural History of Britain and Belgium, 1815-1918 Marysa Demoor, 2022-03-21 This book highlights the ways in which Britain and Belgium became culturally entangled as a result of their interaction in the period between the Napoleonic Wars and the First World War In the course of the nineteenth century the battlefields of Waterloo and Ypres in Belgium became veritable burial grounds for generations of dead British military indirectly leading to the most intensive ties between the two countries. By exploring this twofold path the author uncovers a series of cross influences and creative similarities within the Belgo-British artistic community and explores the background against which the British national identity was constructed. Revealing unknown links between some of the most famous artists on both sides of the channel such as D. G. Rossetti and Jan Van Eyck, Christina Rossetti and Fernand Khnopff, John Millais and Pieter Breughel, and Lewis Carroll and Quentin Massys, the book emphasises an artistic cross fertilisation that can be found within battlefield literature throughout the nineteenth century, including examples from the likes of William M. Thackeray, Frances Trollope and Charlotte Brontë. Providing a rich intercultural history of Belgo-British relations after the battle of Waterloo, this interdisciplinary book will appeal to scholars and students researching history, literature, art and cultural studies.
