

leaders in local and state offices. This scandal also asserted the judiciary's power to bring justice and equality of opportunity.

Another key historical turning point that occurred during the World War II through the 1970s was the civil rights movement. This was a worldwide political movement for equality before the law. It took place between 1950 and 1980 (Finkelman, 2005). It took the form of civil resistance and campaigns aimed at bringing change. In some places, it became accompanied by armed rebellion and civil unrest. In America, the social rights movements aimed at outlawing racial discrimination and restoring voting rights to blacks. These movements not only gave equality to African American's but also women. This had a significant impact on America today as it eventually led to the first black president and women in politics are reaching for the glass ceiling. This movement in America ensured that today certain groups of people got allowed to hold the basic rights that are guaranteed in the constitution. African Americans and women have an equal opportunity to be wealthy and lead a good life. No one's rights get limited by law in America today as previously was the case. This movement ensured that today there is equality of rights and opportunities in America (Finkelman, 2005).

America in the late 1930s wanted to stay out of the European conflict that became the World War II. This was because World War I had ended just 15 years earlier, and it was still a fresh wound to many Americans. World War I killed people, cost money, damaged property and affected everyone who encountered it. Most of them believed that the lives lost in World War I were so many and it was not worth it. A majority of American population was opposed to any policy that could involve the United States in another bloody conflict. In the years after the world war I Americans had reached the conclusion that it had been a disastrous mistake to take part in

Gender Integration in NATO Military Forces Lana Obradovic, 2016-04-15 Numerous states have passed gender integration legislation permanently admitting women into their military forces As a result states have dramatically increased women's numbers and improved gender equality by removing a number of restrictions Yet despite changes and initiatives on both domestic and international levels to integrate gender perspectives into the military not all states have improved to the same extent Some have successfully promoted gender integration in the ranks by erasing all forms of discrimination but others continue to impede it by setting limitations on equal access to careers combat and ranks Why do states abandon their policies of exclusion and promote gender integration in a way that women's military participation becomes an integral part of military force By examining twenty four NATO member states this book argues that civilian policymakers and military leadership no longer surrender to parochial gendered division of the roles but rather support integration to meet the recruitment numbers due to military modernization professionalization and technological advancements Moreover it proposes that increased pressure by the United Nations to integrate gender into security and NATO seeking standardization and consistency on the international level and women's movements on the domestic level are contributing to greater gender integration in the military Winner of the 2015 ERGOMAS Best Book in Civil Military Relations Award
