World History Patterns Of Interactions Textbook Chapter 6:

McDougal Littell World History: Patterns of Interaction McDougal Littell, 1998-11 Teaching Global History

Alan J. Singer, 2012-04-27 Teaching Global History challenges prospective and beginning social studies teachers to formulate their own views about what is important to know in global history and why. It explains how to organize the curriculum around broad social studies concepts and themes and student questions about humanity history and the contemporary world. All chapters include lesson ideas, a sample lesson plan with activity sheets, primary source documents, and helpful charts, graphs, photographs, and maps. High school students' responses are woven in throughout. Additional material corresponding to each chapter is posted online at http://people.hofstra.edu/alan_j_singer. The traditional curriculum tends to highlight the Western heritage and to race through epochs and regions, leaving little time for an in-depth exploration of concepts and historical themes for the evaluation of primary and secondary sources and for students to draw their own historical conclusions.

Offering an alternative to such pre-packaged textbook outlines and materials, this text is a powerful resource for promoting thoughtful reflection and debate about what the global history curriculum should be and how to teach it. The Trouble with Textbooks

Gary A. Tobin, Dennis R. Ybarra, 2008-01-01 Our elementary, middle, and high school teaching about Jews, Judaism, and Israel is driven by textbook misstatements about Jewish theology, social structure, and the history of Israel that comprise an unsavory picture of Jews and Israel. This book will be an extremely valuable reference tool for educators and members of the public interested in religion and the Middle East. The New Politics of the Textbook

Heather Hickman, Brad J. Porfilio, 2012-10-13 In an age of unprecedented corporate and political control over life inside of educational institutions, this book provides a needed intervention to investigate how the economic and political elite use traditional artifacts in K-16 schools to perpetuate their interests at the expense of minoritized social groups. The contributors provide a comprehensive examination of how textbooks, the most dominant cultural force in which corporations and political leaders impact the schooling curricula, shape students' thoughts and behavior, perpetuate power in dominant groups, and trivialize social groups who are oppressed on the structural axes of race, class, gender, sexuality, and disability. Several contributors also generate critical insight into how power shapes the production of textbooks and evaluate whether textbooks still perpetuate dominant Western narratives that normalize and privilege patriotism, militarism, consumerism, White supremacy, heterosexism, rugged individualism, technology, and a positivistic conception of the world. Finally, the book highlights several textbooks that challenge readers to rethink their stereotypical views of the Other, to reflect upon the constitutive forces causing oppression in schools and in the wider society, and to reflect upon how to challenge corporate and political dominance over knowledge production. Doing History

Linda S. Levstik, Keith C. Barton, 2011-01-26 Now in its fourth edition, this popular text offers a unique perspective on teaching and learning history in the elementary and middle grades. Through case studies of teachers and students in diverse classrooms and from diverse backgrounds, it shows children engaging in authentic historical investigations often in the context of an integrated social studies curriculum The central assumption is that children can engage in valid forms of historical inquiry collecting and data analysis examining the perspectives of people in the past considering multiple interpretations and creating evidence based historical accounts In each chapter the authors explain how the teaching demonstrated in the vignettes reflects basic principles of contemporary learning theory thus providing specific examples of successful activities and placing them in a theoretical context that allows teachers to adapt and apply them in a wide variety of settings New in the Fourth Edition Expanded coverage of world history in two new chapters Integration of new technologies to support history instruction Updated classroom examples bibliographies and references

Lazarus, S. Cohen, K. Lambert, R.

E,2013-03-12 The idea for this book came while I was observing a student teacher and a master teacher I realized that most student teachers while in training do not have the opportunity to think creatively about their lessons I also noticed that teachers new to the fi eld of teaching suffer the same fate they are too busy trying to survive the day and are not sure how to plan and organize their teaching Lesson plans are one of the most important tools for a teacher and more important for the novice teacher I believe that during student teaching or during their undergraduate years if students were equipped with this book their fi rst year teaching will not look so fi rst year Imagine an undergraduate class fi lled with soon to be Social Studies teachers discussing these selected lesson plans improving upon them and making them their own Most fi rst year teachers over teach or under teach and both types still miss the marks on the standardized test These lesson plans will give the new
