Climate Economics Michael Roos, Franziska M. Hoffart, 2020-11-13 This book is a philosophical critique of the economics of climate change from both an ethical and philosophy of economics perspective Mitigating climate change is not so much a scientific problem but rather a political social and above all an economic problem A future without greenhouse gas emissions requires a radical transformation towards a sustainable low carbon economy and society How this transformation could be achieved raises numerous economic questions Many of these questions remain untouched although economists are equipped with a suitable toolkit and expertise This book argues that economists have a social responsibility to carry out more research on how global warming could be stopped and that ultimately economic analysis of climate change must be a political economic approach that treats the economy as part of a wider social system This approach will be of interest to policy makers educators students and researchers in support of more pluralism in economic research and teaching
