Checkpoint Controls and Targets in Cancer Therapy Zahid H. Siddik, 2010-03-12 Much work over the last two decades has firmly established that loss of cell cycle checkpoint regulation and resultant unabated cellular proliferation is an inherent characteristic of cancer This loss may occur through aberration in any single component involved in signal transduction pathways that orchestrate checkpoint regulation which may manifest through either a failure to activate the checkpoint or a failure to respond to the activated checkpoint In normal cells checkpoint pathways are activated when genetic or cellular homeostasis is compromised and signals are then transduced to re stabilize homeostasis and failing this to activate the apoptotic machinery to induce a cellular suicidal response This implies that both survival and cell death pathways are induced following checkpoint activation and that the final decision is dependant on the net result of integrating the two sets of signals It is intriguing that checkpoint pathways are also critical in cancer therapy to provide an apoptotic stimulus when cellular damage induced by the therapeutic agent is detected by the sensor system Therefore it is not surprising that failure in pro survival checkpoint response will render tumor cells hypersensitive to cytotoxics and conversely failure in pro apoptotic checkpoint response will induce genetic instability and or therapeutic resistance Understanding the intricacies of checkpoint response is therefore central to the design of therapeutic regimen that will enhance antitumor effects Although early versions of this design entail combination of cytotoxic agents with cell cycle or checkpoint inhibitors a greater understanding of the concepts could make such combinations clinically more effective The contributions in this book will consolidate the current state of knowledge on checkpoint responses that may lay the foundation for hypothesis driven rational approaches in advancing the management of cancer The immediate attraction of the book to the scientific community is that it represents a timely opportunity to build upon existing concepts of checkpoints to expand our understanding of the inner workings of the critical checkpoint machinery The present understanding has provided ample appreciation that response to checkpoint activation is manifested through coordinated inhibition of cyclin dependent kinase CDK complexes in G1 S and or the G2 phase in order to arrest the cell cycle Kinase inhibition can occur through several mechanisms including inhibitory phosphorylation of CDK destruction of the cognate cyclins and recruitment of CDK inhibitors from the INK and WAF1 CIP1 families However the wealth of information from recent discoveries needs to be examined critically to consolidate our conceptual knowledge of checkpoints At the same time there is acute awareness in the diversity of checkpoint response between cytotoxic agents and this serves as a reminder of the magnitude of complexity that is inherent in checkpoint regulation This volume is intended to bring the cancer research community closer toward an improved understanding of this regulation how checkpoint abnormalities can impact negatively on cancer therapy and emerging strategies to target checkpoint response as a therapeutic end point Public Papers of the Presidents of the United States: John F. Kennedy, 1963 Kennedy, John F.,1964-01-01 Public Papers of the Presidents of the United States of Cancer Paul D. Rennert,2016-05-30 Cancer care is undergoing a radical transformation as novel technologies are directed toward new treatments and personalized medicine The most dramatic advances in the treatment of cancer have come from therapeutics that augment the immune response to tumors The immune checkpoint inhibitors are the best known and most highly advanced examples of Immune Therapeutics targeting tumor cells and include approved antibody drugs directed at the cell surface proteins CTLA4 and PD 1 These are now considered foundational treatments for several solid tumor indications and that list of indications is growing quickly More broadly antibodies have become workhorse molecules across the entire immunotherapy landscape Antibodies to novel targets modulate the activity of diverse immune cell regulatory proteins Engineered antibodies can induce tumor cell death or expose tumor cells to poisonous toxins ADCC and ADC respectively Bi specific antibodies can engage multiple tumor targets simultaneously or can redirect lymphocytes to attack tumor cells The antigen binding domains within antibodies can be spliced onto cell stimulatory domains and transduced into T cells or NK cells creating remarkable tumor specific cellular therapeutics CAR T CAR NK Beyond antibody based therapies there are highly diverse and differentiated technology tool kits being applied to immunotherapy Small molecule drugs are being developed to attack the tumor microenvironment novel tumor vaccine approaches are showing great promise patient lymphocytes are being isolated expanded and reintroduced to patients gene editing techniques are becoming widely deployed and a vast number of new tumor targets and mutated tumor proteins neoantigens are being discovered The past decade has seen unprecedented success in the treatment of diverse cancers The authors of this volume have been asked to not only review progress to date but importantly to look ahead and anticipate the evolution of cancer treatment across diverse Immune Therapeutic approaches Our hypothesis is that the advances we are seeing across the immunotherapy landscape will further evolve and synergize leading us finally to outright cures for many cancers

It is our pleasure to present the papers accepted for the 22nd International Workshop on Languages and Compilers for Parallel Computing held during October 8-10 2009 in Newark Delaware USA Since 1986 LCPC has become a valuable venue for researchers to report on work in the general area of parallel computing high performance computer architecture and compilers LCPC 2009 continued this tradition and in particular extended the area of interest to new parallel computing accelerators such as the IBM Cell Processor and Graphic Processing Unit GPU This year we received 52 submissions from 15 countries Each submission received at least three reviews and most had four The PC also sought additional external reviews for contentious papers The PC held an all day phone conference on August 24 to discuss the papers PC members who had a conflict of interest were asked to leave the call temporarily when the corresponding papers were discussed From the 52 submissions the PC selected 25 full papers and 5 short papers to be included in the workshop proceeding representing a 58% acceptance rate We were fortunate to have three keynote speeches a panel discussion and a tutorial in this year's workshop First Thomas Sterling Professor of Computer Science at Louisiana State University gave a keynote talk titled HPC in Phase Change Towards a New Parallel Execution Model Sterling argued that a new multi dimensional research thrust was required to realize the design goals with regard to power complexity clock rate and reliability in the new parallel computer systems ParalleX an exploratory execution model developed by Sterling's group was introduced to guide the co design of new architectures programming methods and system software
