Soul Of A New Machine:

The Soul of A New Machine Tracy Kidder, 2011-08-23 Tracy Kidder's riveting Washington Post story of one company's efforts to bring a new microcomputer to market won both the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award and has become essential reading for understanding the history of the American tech industry. Computers have changed since 1981 when The Soul of a New Machine first examined the culture of the computer revolution. What has not changed is the feverish pace of the high tech industry the go for broke approach to business that has caused so many computer companies to win big or go belly up and the cult of pursuing mind bending technological innovations. The Soul of a New Machine is an essential chapter in the history of the machine that revolutionized the world in the twentieth century. Fascinating. A surprisingly gripping account of people at work. Wall Street Journal

Each article also includes the following: A bibliography, Suggestions for further reading, Links to related topics in the Encyclopedia, Selected works where applicable. Entries include: Pioneers such as Marc Andreessen, Marshall McLuhan and Steve Jobs, Terms from Access to Netiquette to Web cam, Technologies including Bluetooth, MP3 and Linux, Businesses such as Amazon.com, Key labs, research centers and foundations, Associations, Laws and much more. Ebbitt,1992 In nineteen essays illustrating its many aspects this book offers an argument for what it takes to construct a complete rhetorical education The editors take an approach that is pragmatic and pluralistic based as it is on the assumptions that a rhetorical education is not limited to teaching freshman composition or any specific writing course and that the contexts in which such an education occurs are not limited to classrooms This thought provoking volume stresses that while a rhetorical education results in the growth of writing skills its larger goal is to foster critical thinking New Technologies for Human Rights Law and Practice Molly K. Capital, Class & Technology in Contemporary American Culture Nick Heffernan,2000-12-20 In the tradition of Mike Davis and Fredric Jameson Nick Heffernan engages in a series of meditations on capital class and technology in contemporary America He turns to the stories we generate and tell ourselves via fiction film journalism theory to see how change is registered By investigating a variety of texts he observes how structural change affects the way people organise their lives economically socially and culturally Case studies include Ridley Scott's Blade Runner William Gibson's cyberspace trilogy Thomas Pynchon's The Crying of Lot 49 and Wim Wenders's Until the End of the World Using the links between narrative cultural forms and the process of historical understanding he brings together debates that have so far been conducted largely within the separate domains of political economy social theory and cultural criticism to provide a compelling analysis of contemporary cultural change By relocating postmodernism in the context of changing modes of capitalism Heffernan puts the question of class and class agency back at the centre of the critical agenda

Oversold and Underused Larry CUBAN,2009-06-30 Impelled by a demand for increasing American strength in the new global economy many educators public officials business leaders and parents argue that school computers and Internet access will improve academic learning and prepare students for an information based workplace But just how valid is this argument In Oversold and Underused one of the most respected voices in American education argues that when teachers are not given a say in how the technology might reshape schools computers are merely souped up typewriters and classrooms continue to run much as they did a generation ago In his studies of early childhood high school and university classrooms in Silicon Valley Larry Cuban found that students and teachers use the new technologies far less in the classroom than they do at home and that teachers who use computers for instruction do so infrequently and unimaginatively Cuban points out that historical and organizational economic contexts influence how teachers use technical innovations Computers can be useful when teachers sufficiently understand the technology themselves believe it will enhance learning and have the power to shape their own curricula But these conditions can't be met without a broader and deeper commitment to public education beyond preparing workers More attention Cuban says needs to be paid to the civic and social goals of schooling goals that make the question of how many computers are in classrooms trivial eGods William Sims Bainbridge, 2013-04-01 What is the relationship between religion and multi player online roleplaying games Are such games simply a secular distraction from traditional religious practices or do they in fact offer a different route to the sacred In eGods a leading scholar in the study of virtual gameworlds takes an in depth look at the fantasy religions of 41 games and arrives at some surprising conclusions William Sims Bainbridge investigates all aspects of the gameworlds religious dimensions the focus on sacred spaces the prevalence of magic the fostering of a tribal morality by both religion and rules programmed into the game the rise of cults and belief systems within the gameworlds and how this relates to cults in the real world the predominance of polytheism and of course how gameworld religions depict death As avatars are multiple and immortal death is merely a minor setback in most games Nevertheless much of the action in some gameworlds centers on the issue of mortality and the problematic nature of resurrection Examining EverQuest II Lord of the Rings Online Rift World of

Warcraft Star Wars The Old Republic and many others Bainbridge contends that gameworlds offer a new perspective on the human quest one that combines the arts simulates many aspects of real life and provides meaningful narratives about achieving goals by overcoming obstacles Indeed Bainbridge suggests that such games take us back to those ancient nights around the fire when shadows flickered and it was easy to imagine the monsters conjured by the storyteller lurking in the forest Arguing that gameworlds reintroduce a curvilinear model of early religion where today as in ancient times faith is inseparable from fantasy eGods shows how the newest secular technology returns us to the very origins of religion so that we might arrive where we started and know the place for the first time Story of the Pulitzer Prizes in Letters 1917 - 2000
