

Sound

Sound is energy moving in waves—sound is energy vibrating through substances.

All sounds are caused by vibrations—the back and forth motion of molecules.

Energy is needed to start an object vibrating to make sound.

You can clap, pluck, blow, hit, or move something in many ways to make vibrations.

Sound waves carry energy. That is because the energy that starts something vibrating is carried by the sound produced.

A vibrating object makes many sound waves that move away from it in all directions.

A sound wave is vibrating particles in areas of crowded particles followed by widely spaced particles that travel in waves.

The sounds that you hear are usually moving through air. When a sound wave moves through air, the air molecules vibrate back and forth in the same direction as the sound. The vibrations push the air molecules close together, then pull them apart. These waves are called longitudinal waves. Longitudinal waves move in the same direction as the force making them.

The part of a longitudinal wave in which the molecules are squeezed together is called a compression. The molecules are compressed, or squeezed together into a smaller space.

The chapters are categorized by body system such as respiratory, digestive, et al. The chapters in this study guide follow the same sequence as the Official Coding Guidelines. All chapters, in addition to highlighting basic coding guidelines, contain situation-based coding tips and coding examples. A quiz follows each chapter, reinforcing concepts in a rigorous manner that applies directly to the professional coding environment. The book also contains a selective discussion of invasive procedures that the coder will most likely encounter on the job and on the exam. At the end of ICD-9 CM Inpatient Coding Reference and Study Guide are 15 case studies providing the reader with an opportunity to assess their ICD-9 CM coding skill set and speed at coding inpatient medical records. Each record contains a face sheet, history, physical, progress notes, and answer sheet. Some of the case studies contain ER reports, consultations, as well as operative and pathology reports. The answer key at the end of this study guide contains a rationale for all code assignments, 456 short answer questions, 116 multiple choice questions, 15 full medical record case studies. Each question is highly relevant and reflects a coding situation most hospital-based inpatient coders will face. The text strives to ensure the reader understands every diagnosis and procedure discussed, thorough discussion of symptoms, standard treatment protocols, and medications. Coding examples and quizzes help clarify the information presented.
