History Education and Historical Inquiry Bob Bain, Arthur Chapman, Alison Kitson, Tamara Shreiner, 2024-04-01 Inquiry plays a vital role in history as a discipline which constructs knowledge about the past and it is a vital organizing principle in history education in many countries around the world Inquiry is also much debated however and although it has prominent contemporary advocates around the world it also has prominent critics in education studies This volume in the International Review of History Education explores the role of historical inquiry in history curricula and in history classrooms and addresses a series of linked questions including the following What does historical inquiry mean in history classrooms What forms does classroom based historical inquiry take and to what extent is it understood in differing ways in different contexts What do we know about the affordances and constraints associated with inquiry based learning in history what is the evidence of the effectiveness or ineffectiveness of inquiry based historical learning We address these questions in the volume by presenting seventeen papers from eight different international contexts exploring historical inquiry that will be of interest both to history teachers curriculum designers and history education researchers seven papers from England three from the US two from Sweden and one each from Argentina Australia Belgium Canada and Singapore The volume adds to our knowledge about teachers thinking about inquiry and teachers inquiry practices It adds to our knowledge about the impact and value of inquiry in developing children s historical learning It also explores the challenges that implementing inquiry can present for history teachers and provides support for implementation and examples of successful practice

ENDORSEMENT A wonderful overview of the global story of historical inquiry Canvassing everything from finding opportunities to teach history through all levels of education through to the complexities of navigating different views on the past inside and outside of the classroom History Education and Historical Inquiry provides a practical and empowering approach for educators around the world Recommended reading for anyone who wants to feel the support of educators from around the world in strengthening the place of inquiry in complex times Marnie Hughes Warrington University of South Australia The New World History

Ross E. Dunn, Laura J. Mitchell, Kerry Ward, 2016-08-23 The New World History is a comprehensive volume of essays selected to enrich world history teaching and scholarship in this rapidly expanding field The forty four articles in this book take stock of the history evolving literature and current trajectories of new world history These essays together with the editors introductions to thematic chapters encourage educators and students to reflect critically on the development of the field and to explore concepts approaches and insights valuable to their own work The selections are organized in ten chapters that survey the history of the movement the seminal ideas of founding thinkers and today s practitioners changing concepts of world historical space and time comparative methods environmental history the big history movement globalization debates over the meaning of Western power and ongoing questions about the intellectual premises and assumptions that have shaped the field Teaching World History in the Twenty-first Century: A Resource Book Heidi Roupp, 2015-02-12 This practical handbook is designed to help anyone who is preparing to teach a world history course or wants to teach it better It includes contributions by experienced teachers who are reshaping world history education and features new approaches to the subject as well as classroom tested practices that have markedly improved world history teaching

Creation Stories in Dialogue: The Bible, Science, and Folk Traditions Jan G. van der Watt, R. Alan Culpepper, 2015-11-02 This book is about creation stories in dialogue not only between different religious views but also between current day scientific perspectives International specialists like Alan Culpepper David Christian John Haught Randall Zachman Ellen van Wolde from various disciplines are reflecting on the interface between science and religion relating questions of creation and origin This multi disciplinary discussion by some of the leading exponents in this field makes the book unique not only in its depth of discussion but also in its wide ranging interdisciplinary discussion. The point of departure of all the contributions is the prestige lecture by Alan Culpepper where he argues for bringing Biblical material into discussion with modern scientific insights relating to creation and origin. MasterClass in History Education Christine Counsell, Katharine Burn, Arthur Chapman, 2016-10-06. MasterClass in History Education draws on international research and practice to present effective and engaging approaches for history teachers who want to explore the ways in which reading research and reflection can support the development of history teaching and learning in the classroom. At the heart of the book is a series of professional enquiries carried out by experienced history teachers working in a range of contexts. Each history teacher addresses clear questions arising from their practice and together they illustrate various approaches to data collection, data analysis and argument. These history teachers also show how they drew on diverse scholarship in history and history education including many publications by other history teachers. In eight further chapters other experts ranging from practitioner scholars to researchers in diverse fields such as history, history education, teacher education, teacher research and curriculum theory reflect on the distinctive insights that these teachers offer and explore connections with their own fields. The combination of perspectives and the depth of knowledge of the varied contributors reveal the importance of different kinds of relationship between theory and practice. The links between classroom realities and research and the critical use of different kinds of text will support history teachers in developing their practice and professional voice. Maps of Time David Christian, 2011-10-03. An introduction to a new way of looking at history from a perspective that stretches from the beginning of time to the present day. Maps of Time is world history on an unprecedented scale. Beginning with the Big Bang, David Christian views the interaction of the natural world with the more recent arrivals in flora and fauna including human beings. Cosmology, geology, archeology and population and environmental studies all figure in David Christian's account which is an ambitious overview of the emerging field of Big History. Maps of Time opens with the origins of the universe, the stars and the galaxies, the sun and the solar system including the earth and conducts readers through the evolution of the planet before human habitation. It surveys the development of human society from the Paleolithic era through the transition to agriculture, the emergence of cities and states and the birth of the modern industrial period right up to intimations of possible futures. Sweeping in scope, finely focused in its minute detail, this riveting account of the known world from the inception of space time to the prospects of global warming lays the groundwork for world history and Big History true as never before to its name. 100 Ideas for Secondary Teachers: Outstanding History Lessons Emily Thomas, 2017-05-18.
