Human Pedigrees

For Questions 1-6, use the pedigree chart shown below. Some of the labels may be used more than once.

- _____ 1. A male
_____ 2. A female
_____ 3. A marriage

- _____ 4. A person who expresses the trait
_____ 5. A person who does not express the trait
_____ 6. A connection between parents and offspring

- _____ 7. How many generations are shown on this chart?

Assuming the chart above is tracking the dominant trait of "White Forelock (F)" through the family, F is a trait of white hair on the forehead.

- _____ 8. What is the most likely genotype of individual "A"? (FF, Ff or ff)
_____ 9. What is the most likely genotype of individual "C"? (FF, Ff or ff)

Advances in genetics over the past 50 years have been dramatically changed the understanding and management of inherited disorders and are beginning to have a major impact on the practice of medicine overall The rapidity of these advances means that clinicians and scientists in the field are often unfamiliar with the key research that has led to many developments that now are accepted and familiar Few have time to search for the original papers which are scattered and often difficult to obtain This collection has been edited mainly for medical geneticists and genetics researchers who wish to learn more about how their field originated and developed Brief clearly written commentaries on each paper and section place the work in its current context and serve to unify the different parts of the book They also help make it a readable and authoritative source of information The papers chosen fall into several groups First are classic descriptions of important genetic disorders often from the pre mendelian era The following sections deal with the definition of human mendelian inheritance the origins of human cytogenetics the early development of the human gene map and the transition from biochemical genetics to human molecular genetics the relatively recent studies that have shown how mendelian principles are increasingly modifiable and
