teaching of classical languages literature and culture has not until now been extensively described and evaluated Nevertheless educational technology has made a huge difference to the ways in which Classics is taught at junior senior and college level The book brings together twenty major approaches to the use of technology in the classroom and presents them for a wide international audience It thus forms a record of current and developing practice promotes further discussion and use among practitioners teachers learners and trainers and offers suggestions for changes in pedagogical practices in the teaching of Classics for the better The many examples of practice from both UK and US perspectives are applicable to countries throughout the world where Classics is being taught The more traditional curricula of high school education in the UK and Europe are drawing more and more on edutech whereas educational jurisdictions in the US are increasingly expecting high school students to use ICT in all lessons with some actively dissuading schools from using traditional printed textbooks This book presents school teachers with a vital resource as they adapt to this use of educational technology in Classics teaching This is no less pertinent at university level in the UK and US where pedagogy tends to follow traditionalist paradigms this book offers lecturers frameworks for understanding and assimilating the models of teaching and learning which are prevalent in schools and experienced by their students Teachers as Mediators in Language Immersion

Education Kelle L. Marshall, Wendy D. Bokhorst-Heng, 2025-09-04 This book explores the role of teachers as intercultural mediators within language immersion education programs. The authors draw on research conducted in the context of a one way French immersion program in New Brunswick, Canada, an officially bilingual province and country. Their discussion is anchored on the landmark Douglas Fir Group framework of second language acquisition, examining the implications of macro level ideologies for language education curriculum and intercultural instruction. The book considers educators' placement within the framework and their potential role as intercultural mediators between macro level ideologies, meso level curricular implementation, and their students at the micro level. They even provide an amendment to the framework that models this mediating role. Through interview data with entry point early French immersion teachers and principals of their schools, the authors emphasise the importance of theoretically situating teachers' positions as mediators of ideology and culture. Through this, we can fully understand what it means to incorporate intercultural competence into language learning. They argue that teachers receive little support either through curriculum or through training on how to engage with intercultural instruction in their practice. They then describe their own course for training pre and in service teachers on intercultural mediation in their language education practice, applicable to a variety of language learning models and contexts. Advancing Nursing Practice Carolyn Hart, Pegge Bell, 2021-01-04 Advancing Nursing Practice: Exploring Roles and Opportunities for Clinicians, Educators, and Leaders helps your students understand how to apply classroom knowledge to eventual professional practice as a CRNA, CNM, CNS, or NP/DNP, or in a faculty or administrative position.
