Complex Lexical Units Barbara Schlücker,2019-01-14 Both compounds and multi word expressions are complex lexical units made up of at least two constituents The most basic difference is that the former are morphological objects and the latter result from syntactic processes However the exact demarcation between compounds and multi word expressions differs greatly from language to language and is often a matter of debate in and across languages Similarly debated is whether and how these two different kinds of units complement or compete with each other The volume presents an overview of compounds and multi word expressions in a variety of European languages Central questions that are discussed for each language concern the formal distinction between compounds and multi word expressions their formation and their status in lexicon and grammar The volume contains chapters on German English Dutch French Italian Spanish Greek Russian Polish Finnish and Hungarian as well as a contrastive overview with a focus on German It brings together insights from word formation theory phraseology and theory of grammar and aims to contribute to the understanding of the lexicon both from a language specific and cross linguistic perspective
