Enhancing Research for Academicians in Higher Education Mdikana, Andile Alfred, 2024-11-29 Academics and postgraduate students in higher education often face challenges navigating the complex research landscape from formulating a sound rationale and problem statement to developing a robust theoretical framework and publishing their work effectively. Many need help publishing their research and making informed decisions, and the current lack of assistance hinders their academic progress and contribution to knowledge production. Emerging academics often need more guidance in research supervision, and postgraduate students may require support in writing quality research proposals and dissertations. Enhancing Research for Academicians in Higher Education offers a transformative solution to these challenges, providing a comprehensive guide to rethinking and reimagining research in higher education. Centralizing the research discourse through the concept of Africanization offers a unique groundbreaking and timely perspective. The book empowers academics and postgraduate students to develop their research profiles, explore various research approaches and paradigms, and understand research's philosophical and theoretical foundations.

Proceedings of the International Conference on Education Research Reza Hosseini, Impressions from South Africa, 1965 to Now Judith B. Hecker, 2011 Encompassing black and white linoleum cuts made at community art centres in the 1960s and 1970s, resistance posters and other political art of the 1980s, and the wide variety of subjects and techniques explored by artists in printshops over the last two decades, printmaking has been a driving force in contemporary South African artistic and political expression. Impressions from South Africa 1965 to Now published to accompany an exhibition at The Museum of Modern Art introduces the vital role of printmaking through works by more than twenty artists in the Museum's collection. The volume features prints by John Muafangejo and Dan Rakgoathe, a selection of posters produced for anti-apartheid coalitions in the 1980s, and nuanced political work by Sue Williamson, Norman Catherine, and William Kentridge. The book features many more recent projects demonstrating the contemporary relevance of the medium in South Africa today. The work presented in a generous plate section is contextualized in an introduction by Judith B. Hecker and accompanied by brief biographies of the artists, a timeline of relevant events in South African history, and a selected bibliography.

Essays on the Evolution of the Post-Apartheid State Mcebisi Ndletyana, 2015-02-01 This book critically examines the challenges, successes, and failures of the post-1994 South African state against the humane values enshrined in its constitution nonracial democracy and respect for all generations of human rights civil political social economic resources and the environment and gender and communication The book sheds light on the difficulties faced by the State when trying to bring together a diverse society comprised of traditional South African Western based and other African immigrant cultures into a cohesive nation with a common South African identity The views of the essays may not be entirely consistent and the issues they raise may be contentious This merely affirms the truism that the State is a contested terrain The aim of this book is to deepen the search for an understanding of the theory of the State as it applies to a transforming society such as ours and to trudge the dividing line between theory and practice so they can feed into each other in a progressive spiral towards the desired end state

Police Work and Identity Andrew Faull, 2017-09-07 This is a book about the men and women who police contemporary South Africa Drawing on rich original ethnographical data it considers how officers make sense of their jobs and how they find meaning in their duties It demonstrates that the dynamics that lead to police abuses and scandals in transitional and neo liberalising regimes such as South Africa can be traced to the day to day experiences and ambitions of the average police officer It is about the stories they tell themselves about themselves and their social worlds and how these shape the order they produce through their work By focusing on police officers this book positions the individual in primacy over the organisation asking what policing looks like when motivated by the pursuit of ontological security in precarious contexts It acknowledges but downplays the importance of police culture in determining officers attitudes and behaviour and reminds readers that most officers lives are entangled in and shaped by a range of social political and cultural forces It suggests that a job in the South African Police Service SAPS is primarily just that a job Most officers join the organisation after other dreams have slipped beyond reach their presence in the Service being almost accidental But once employed they re write their self narratives and enact carefully choreographed performances to ease managerial and public pressure and to rationalize their coercive practices In an era where evidence and what works reigns supreme and where cop culture is often deemed a primary socializing force this book emphasises how officers personal histories ambitions and vulnerabilities remain central to how policing unfolds on the street

ICIME 2011-Proceedings of the 2nd International Conference on Information Management and Evaluation Ken Grant, Following on from the continued success of the European Conference on Information Management and Evaluation we are delighted at the Ted Rogers School of Management Ryerson

University to be able to host the 2nd International Conference on Information Management and Evaluation ICIME 2011 ICIME aims to bring together individuals researching and working in the broad field of information management including information technology evaluation We hope that this year s conference will provide you with plenty of opportunities to share your expertise with colleagues from around the world This year s opening keynote address will be delivered by Dr Catherine Middleton Ted Rogers School of Information Technology Management Ryerson University Toronto Canada Emerging Issues and Prospects in African E-Government Sodhi, Inderjeet Singh, 2014-07-31 Efforts have been made toward the application of electronic government in the developing world yet questions of how to best implement governance systems and address concerns from officials and citizens alike remain to be answered Emerging Issues and Prospects in African E-Government explores relevant practices trends and potential challenges facing fledgling governments in the digital era This book focuses on the establishment and maintenance of e government in various African countries providing critical insights for government bodies policymakers administrators and public sector researchers working in local state and national governments around the world ECIE 2017 12th European Conference on Innovation and Entrepreneurship Christophe Loué, Sonia Ben Slimane, 2017-09-21 Applied Practice Nick Rowe, Matthew Reason, 2017-08-10 Applied Practice Evidence and Impact in Theatre Music and Art engages with a diversity of contexts locations and arts forms including theatre music and fine art and brings together theoretical political and practice based perspectives on the question of evidence in relation to participatory arts practice in social contexts This collection is a unique contribution to the field focusing on one of the vital concerns for a growing and developing set of arts and research practices It asks us to consider evidence not only in terms of methodology but also in the light of the ideological political and pragmatic implications of that methodology In Part One Matthew Reason and Nick Rowe reflect on evidence and impact in the participatory arts in relation to recurring conceptual and methodological motifs These include issues of purpose and obliquity the relationship between evidence and knowledge intrinsic and instrumental impacts and the value of participatory research Part Two explores the diversity of perspectives contexts and methodologies in examining what it is possible to know say and evidence about the often complex and intimate impact of participatory arts Part Three brings together case studies in which practitioners and practice based researchers consider the frustrations opportunities and successes they face in addressing the challenge to produce evidence for the impact of their practice Networks on Networks Allen G. Hunt, Stefano Manzoni, 2016-01-01 Order from chaos is simultaneously a mantra of physics and a reality in biology Physicist Norman Packard suggested that life developed and thrives at the edge of chaos Questions remain however as to how much practical knowledge of biology can be traced to existing physical principles and how much physics has to change in order to address the complexity of biology Phil Anderson a physics Nobel laureate contributed to popularizing a new notion of the end of reductionism In this view it is necessary to abandon the quest of reducing complex behavior to known physical results and to identify emergent behaviors and principles In the present book however we have sought physical rules that can underlie the behavior of biota as well as the geochemistry of soil development We looked for fundamental principles such as the dominance of water flow paths with the least cumulative resistance that could maintain their relevance across a wide range of spatial and temporal scales together with the appropriate description of solute transport associated with such flow paths Thus ultimately we address both nutrient and water transport limitations of processes from chemical weathering to vascular plant growth The physical principles guiding our effort are established in different but related concepts and fields of research so that in fact our book applies reductionist techniques guided by analogy The fact that fundamental traits extend across biotic and abiotic processes i e the same fluid flow rate is relevant to both but that distinctions in topology of the connected paths lead to dramatic differences in growth rates helps unite the study of these nominally different disciplines of geochemistry and geobiology within the same framework It has been our goal in writing this book to share the excitement of learning and one of the most exciting portions to us has been the ability to bring some order to the question of the extent to which soils can facilitate plant growth and what limitations on plant sizes metabolism occurrence and correlations can be formulated thereby While we bring order to the soil constraints on growth we also generate some uncertainties in the scaling relationships of plant growth and metabolism Although we have made an first attempt to incorporate edaphic constraints into allometric scaling this is but an initial foray into the forest

Health Promotion in Schools, Universities, Workplaces, and Communities Graça S. Carvalho, Emily Darlington, Teresa Vilaça, 2024-12-17 Health education well being improvement and advocacy are effective health promotion strategies among cutting edge Public Health practices Salutogenic perspectives rooted in ecological models have taken their rightful place to empower individuals and communities to change their life ecosystems and preserve and improve their health It is imperative to shift from targeting protective or risk factors which have linear causal relationships with health conditions and or comorbidities and encompass a systemic understanding of the role of health determinants in creating health Individual collective and structural ecological approaches can better reduce health inequities Moreover engaging the presumed beneficiaries from such strategies ensures that actual needs are identified and choices are context specific It improves the whole implementation process as well as its results Higher levels of participation such as co creation imply a bottom up voluntary collaborative process rooted in values of diversity mutual trust openness autonomy freedom and respect as well as shared expertise responsibility and decision making which are essential values in co creating health promotion
