Trails in Academic and Administrative Leadership in Kenya Michieka, Ratemo Waya,2017-05-03 Scholars especially those interested in understanding how leadership has inhibited academic freedom and hindered effectiveness of institutions of higher learning have for long been engaged by the very important manner in which governance and leadership of higher education institutions in Africa is constituted and managed The fact that there has been a dearth of work based on the experiences of those who have served as university leaders has created a major gap Questions remain on how leaders of higher education institutions are identified how they are prepared the personal predispositions that individuals bring to the exercise of such positions and their personal experiences regarding what energizes or inhibits the performance of their work Until recently presidents in most African countries served as chancellors of public universities identification of those who served as university leaders was largely a political process But much has changed with most countries establishing oversight bodies and the overall governance of higher education institutions divorced from the day to day political processes Trails in Academic and Administrative Leadership in Kenya provides a personal account of the experiences in higher education leadership from an individual whose tenure in leadership straddled the two eras In this book Prof Michieka provides an account of how his early education prepared him for roles in academic and institutional leadership in Kenya The author shares his experiences on the trails he had to navigate as an academic a vice chancellor and a chairperson of university council at a time when universities in Kenya were transiting from extreme government administrative control to a greater degree of operational autonomy Readers will find in this work thought provoking insights on how leaders of higher education institutions in Kenya have had to balance between demands of the political system and the need to safeguard academic traditions in the everyday management of the institutions

Sustainable Energy for All David Ockwell,Rob Byrne,2016-08-19 Despite decades of effort and billions of dollars spent two thirds of people in sub Saharan Africa still lack access to electricity a vital pre cursor to economic development and poverty reduction Ambitious international policy commitments seek to address this but scholarship has failed to keep pace with policy ambitions lacking both the empirical basis and the theoretical perspective to inform such transformative policy aims Sustainable Energy for All aims to fill this gap Through detailed historical analysis of the Kenyan solar PV market the book demonstrates the value of a new theoretical perspective based on Socio Technical Innovation System Building Importantly the book goes beyond a purely academic critique to detail exactly how a Socio Technical Innovation System Building approach might be operationalized in practice facilitating both a detailed plan for future comparative research as well as a clear agenda for policy and practice Chapters 1 and 6 of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution CC BY 4.0 license

Differentiation and Articulation in Tertiary Education Systems Njuguna Ng'ethe, George Subotzky, George Afeti, 2008-01-01 This title explores an area of tertiary education that is currently understudied this is the extent and nature of differentiation and articulation in African tertiary education systems The overall finding is that the binary system is dominant characterised by universities and polytechnics as distinct types of institutions Differentiation is clearly evident in Africa However though varied in nature and extent the differentiation is mostly horizontal as opposed to vertical Articulation on the other hand seems to be in its infancy as some universities in their admission requirements do

Distance Teaching for the Third World Michael Young, Hilary Perraton, Janet Jenkins, Tony Dodds, 2010-11-26 This reissue first published in 1980 is based on the experiences of the International Extension College in developing distance teaching The volume begins by reviewing the world problems of educational quality and quantity and then examines the ways in which print broadcasts and group study have been used to train teachers to improve classroom education to teach by correspondence out of school and to support rural development It then considers how that experience can be used perhaps by creating a network of radio colleges to supplement and extend existing schools and colleges Finally the book includes a descriptive and annotated bibliography of over 100 distance teaching projects in 65 third world countries Perspectives in Defense Management ,1973 The Encyclopedia of Comparative Education and National Systems of Education T.
