Learning Through Teaching Mathematics Roza Leikin, Rina Zazkis, 2010-04-10 The idea of teachers Learning through Teaching LTT when presented to a naïve bystander appears as an oxymoron Are we not supposed to learn before we teach After all under the usual circumstances learning is the task for those who are being taught not of those who teach However this book is about the learning of teachers not the learning of students It is an ancient wisdom that the best way to truly learn something is to teach it to others Nevertheless once a teacher has taught a particular topic or concept and consequently truly learned it what is left for this teacher to learn As evident in this book the experience of teaching presents teachers with an exciting opportunity for learning throughout their entire career This means acquiring a better understanding of what is being taught and moreover learning a variety of new things What these new things may be and how they are learned is addressed in the collection of chapters in this volume LTT is acknowledged by multiple researchers and mathematics educators In the first chapter Leikin and Zazkis review literature that recognizes this phenomenon and stress that only a small number of studies attend systematically to LTT processes The authors in this volume purposefully analyze the teaching of mathematics as a source for teachers own learning

Historical Modules for the Teaching and Learning of Mathematics Victor J. Katz, Karen Dee Michalowicz, 2020-03-02 Contains 11 modules consist of a number of activities designed to demonstrate the use of the history of mathematics in the teaching of mathematics Objectives of the Modules To enable students to develop a much richer understanding of mathematics and its applications by viewing the same phenomena from multiple mathematical perspectives To enable students to understand the historical background and connections among historical ideas leading to the development of mathematics To enable students to see how mathematical concepts evolved over periods of time To provide students with opportunities to apply their knowledge of mathematics to various concrete situations and problems in a historical context To develop in students an appreciation of the history connected with the development of different mathematical concepts To enable students to recognize and use connections among mathematical ideas To enable students to understand how mathematical ideas interconnect and build on one another to produce a coherent whole To lead students to recognize and apply mathematics in contexts outside of mathematics Publisher
