The preliminary chapters both succinct and informative give students an excellent overview of French cinema as a whole and of the technical knowledge needed for film analysis. Each of the subsequent chapters offers an indispensable introduction discussing the plot, director, production, actors, reception, and context of the film in question and also provides a very useful filmography and bibliography. An exemplary work: Brigitte E. Humbert, Department of French and Francophone Studies, Middlebury College.

Les Amours mortes Pierre Chocquet, 2011. J'avais huit ans quand j'ai fait sa connaissance. C'était pour l'enfant que j'étais une vieille femme habillée en noir que je jugeais désagréable. Madame la comtesse, patronne de mon père, prit en charge les frais de mes études. Et puis je suis revenu sur mon jugement initial. Cette inaccessible se révéla être une femme, une femme merveilleuse qui marquera ma vie.

Contemporary French Cinema Guy Austin, 1996-11-15. Examines popular French film of the last 25 years. Charts recent developments in all genres since the New Wave, including the heritage film, the thriller, the war film, cinema du look. Other topics include representations of sexuality, the work of women film makers. Includes a filmography.

French-speaking Women Film Directors Janis L. Pallister, 1997. This guide offers listings of some 300 Francophone women from around the world, their work. Wherever possible, entries include dates, brief biographies, descriptions, brief critical analyses.

Miraculous Realism Niels Niessen, 2020-03-01. At the 1999 Cannes Film Festival, two movies from northern Francophone Europe swept almost all the main awards: Rosetta by the Walloon directors Jean-Pierre and Luc Dardenne won the Golden Palm, and L'humanité by the French director Bruno Dumont won the Grand Prize, both won acting awards as well. Taking this miracle of Cannes as the point of departure, Niels Niessen identifies a transregional film movement in the French-Belgian border region, the Cinéma du Nord, or cinema of the North. He examines this movement within the contexts of French and Belgian national cinemas from the silent era to the digital age, as well as that of the new realist tendency in world cinema of the last three decades. In addition, he traces from a northern perspective a secular religious tradition in Francophone European film and philosophy from Bresson and Pialat via Bazin, Deleuze, and Godard to the Dardennes and Dumont, while critiquing this tradition for its frequent use of a humanist vocabulary of grace for a secular world. Once a cradle of the Industrial Revolution, the Franco-Belgian Nord faced economic crisis for most of the twentieth century. Miraculous Realism demonstrates that the Cinéma du Nord's rise to prominence resulted from the region's endeavor to reinvent itself economically and culturally at the crossroads of Europe after decades of recession.

Cinéma d'elles, 1981-2001 Françoise Audé, 2002. Évoque le travail cinématographique de Jacqueline Veuve ainsi que celui d'Anne-Marie Mi-ville.

Cinema and the Second Sex Carrie Tarr, Brigitte Rollet, 2016-10-06. Women's filmmaking in France has been a source of both delight and despair. On the one hand, the numbers are impressive: over 250 feature-length films were made by over 100 women directors in France in the 1980s and 1990s. On the other hand, despite the heritage of French feminism, French women directors characteristically disclaim their gender as a significant factor in their filmmaking. This incisive study provides an informative critical guide to this major body of work exploring the boundaries between personal films, intimate psychological dramas relating to key stages in life and genre films which demonstrate women's ability to appropriate and rework popular genres. It analyzes the effects of postfeminism, women's desire to enter the mainstream and the impact of a new generation of filmmakers enabling readers to take stock of the wealth and diversity of women's contribution to French cinema during the 1980s and 1990s. Le millième jour de la marmotte Fanny Gayral, 2022-06-02.
