

Extended Argumentative Paragraph Rubric

	Advocates (Yes)	Advocates (No)	Doesn't (Yes)
Content	The student presents the problem and makes a clear position and reason(s) that is clear, relevant, and arguable and not too obvious to most of the audience.	The student does not present the problem but has a clear statement of reason(s) that supports the topic of the paragraph.	The student attempts to make a claim, but it is somewhat unclear what reason(s) and it is unclear what position the student is arguing.
Evidence	The student provides evidence and reasoning, which is used to support the student's position. The student's position is clearly supported by the evidence.	The student gives some reasoning about the evidence that supports the claim but lacks a clear position. Evidence is not supported because it is not clear.	The student has no clear position supporting evidence for their claim. There is no clear position presented or supported.
Support Reason	Every part of evidence is supported or is supported by a reason(s) and each part is supported with a clear reason(s).	The student's position is not supported by the evidence that is presented in the paragraph.	The student does not provide any supporting evidence to connect the evidence back to the claim.
Counter Claim	The student offers a clear and logical counterclaim(s) and provides reasoning for their position and why the student's position is better than the counterclaim(s).	The student offers a counterclaim, but it is not clear what the student's position is.	The student does not offer a counterclaim or evidence supporting their position.
Style	The student presents the topic in the paragraph presented and clearly why their position is better than the counterclaim.	The student does not clearly state a position about the topic and does not clearly present the reason(s) presented.	The student does not offer a style.
