BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The biosphere is the thin layer of land, air and water around the earth's surface that supports life. The abiotic, or non-living, portion of each ecosystem in the biosphere includes the flow of energy, nutrients, water, and gases and the concentrations of organic and inorganic substances in the environment. The biotic, or living, portion includes organisms based on their methods of acquiring energy: the primary producers, largely green plants; the consumers, which include all the animals; and the decomposers, which include the microorganisms that break down the remains of plants and animals into simpler components for recycling in the biosphere.

Ecological pyramids are a graphical representation in the shape of a pyramid to show the feeding relationship of groups of organisms, and the flow of energy or biomass through the different trophic levels in a given ecosystem.

Emotions and The Body in Buddhist Contemplative Practice and Mindfulness-Based Therapy Padmasiri de Silva, 2017-06-30 This book represents an outstanding contribution to the field of somatic psychology. It focuses on the relationship between body and emotions and on the linkages between mindfulness-based emotion studies and neuroscience. The author discusses the awakening of somatic intelligence as a journey through pain and trauma management, the moral dimensions of somatic passions and the art and practice of embodied mindfulness. Issues such as the emotions and the body in relation to Buddhist contemplative practice against the background of the most recent findings of current neuroscience are expanded in the book. A broad review of the Darwinian/Jamesian heritage on emotion studies is a unique contribution to the tradition of the somatogenic strands of emotions and provides a contrasting focus to the ideogenic emotions in Sigmund Freud. This work provides an invaluable resource for students of psychology and philosophy, psychotherapists and meditation teachers, students and for anyone with an interest in the field of somatic psychology. Chinese Research Perspectives on Educational Development, Volume 4 Dongping Yang, 2019-09-24 This collection of articles selected from the Blue Book of Chinese Education 2015 published in Chinese reviews the condition of China's education development in 2014. The wide range of topics covered in this volume fall under two major themes: reform and equity. Chapters on reform focus on the college entrance exam (Gaokao), secondary vocational education, senior high school education, provincially and locally funded colleges, private universities and junior high school admissions policies. Chapters in the second half of the book provide readers with an in-depth account of efforts made to improve equity in special and early childhood education, study abroad preparation classes and rural education. The appendix includes a report of budgetary expenditure on education and a chronology of major events. Biopolitics of the More-Than-Human Joseph Pugliese, 2020-10-23 In Biopolitics of the More Than Human, Joseph Pugliese examines the concept of the biopolitical through a nonanthropocentric lens, arguing that more-than-human entities, from soil and orchards to animals and water, are actors and agents in their own right with legitimate claims to justice. Examining occupied Palestine, Guantánamo and sites of US drone strikes in Afghanistan, Pakistan, Somalia and Yemen, Pugliese challenges notions of human exceptionalism by arguing that more-than-human victims of war and colonialism are entangled with and subject to the same violent biopolitical regimes as humans He also draws on Indigenous epistemologies that invest more than human entities with judicial standing to argue for an ethico legal framework that will enable the realization of ecological justice Bringing the more than human world into the purview of justice Pugliese makes visible the ecological effects of human war that would otherwise remain outside the domains of biopolitics and law
