Classroom Assessment and Educational Measurement Susan

M. Brookhart, James H. McMillan, 2019-07-04 Classroom Assessment and Educational Measurement explores the ways in which the theory and practice of both educational measurement and the assessment of student learning in classroom settings mutually inform one another. Chapters by assessment and measurement experts consider the nature of classroom assessment information from student achievement to affective and socio-emotional attributes, how teachers interpret and work with assessment results, and emerging issues in assessment such as digital technologies and diversity inclusion. This book uniquely considers the limitations of applying large-scale educational measurement theory to classroom assessment and the adaptations necessary to make this transfer useful. Researchers, graduate students, industry professionals, and policymakers will come away with an essential understanding of how the classroom assessment context is essential to broadening contemporary educational measurement perspectives. Mandy Hoffen and a Conspiracy to Resurrect Life and Social Justice in Science Curriculum with Henrietta Lacks Dana Compton McCullough, 2021-06-01 This book is a theoretical inquiry into alternative pedagogies that challenge current standardized practices in the field of science education. Through Mandy Hoffen, a fictional persona, Dana McCullough, the author explores how stories of Henrietta Lacks become part of a conspiracy to change science education. Mandy Hoffen, however, never expected to find herself in the middle of a conspiracy. As a science teacher of 20 plus years, she worked diligently to meet the needs of her charges, who are currently ninth and tenth grade biology students in an age of standardized testing. The author also creates imaginary dialogues which serve as the theoretical framework for each chapter. Each chapter unfolds in a form of a play with imaginary settings and events that bring Henrietta Lacks back from the grave to participate in conversations about science, society, and social justice. The imaginary conversations are based on the author's experiences in graduate courses, direct quotations from philosophers of science, historians of science, science educators, curriculum theorists, and stories of students in their study of Henrietta Lacks in a high school biology classroom. The play describes the journey of a graduate student, high school teacher, as she researches the importance of the philosophy of science, history of science, science curriculum, and social justice in science education. Through reflections on fictional conversations, stories of Henrietta Lacks are examined and described in multiple settings, beginning in an imaginary academic meeting and ending with student conversations in a classroom. Each setting provides a space for conversations wherein participants explore their personal connections with science, science curriculum, issues of social justice related to science, and Henrietta Lacks. This book will be of interest to graduate students, scholars, and undergraduates in curriculum studies, educational foundations, and teacher education, and those interested in alternative research methodologies. This is the first book to intentionally address the stories of Henrietta Lacks and their importance in the field of curriculum studies, science studies, and current standardized high school science curriculum.

Overcoming Student Learning Bottlenecks Joan Middendorf, Leah Shopkow, 2023-07-03 Decoding the Disciplines is a widely used and proven methodology that prompts teachers to identify the bottlenecks, the places where students get stuck that impede learners' paths to expert thinking in a discipline. The process is based on recognizing the gap between novice learning and expert thinking and uncovering tacit knowledge that may not be made manifest in teaching. Through decoding, implicit expert knowledge can be turned into explicit mental tasks and made available to students. This book presents a seven-step process for uncovering bottlenecks and determining the most effective way to enable students to surmount them. The authors explain how to apply the seven steps of Decoding the Disciplines: how to identify bottlenecks, unpack the critical thinking of experts, teach students how to do this kind of thinking, and how to evaluate the degree to which students have learned to do it. They provide in-depth descriptions of each step, and at the end of each chapter, at least one exercise the reader can do on his or her own Because the decoding process works well with groups they also provide exercises for leading groups through the process making available to informal groups as well as groups led by professional developers the tools to transform their understanding of teaching and learning by getting the student view that they refer to as the bottleneck perspective Because it focuses on the mental moves that underlie the cognitive competencies we want students to develop spelling out what critical thinking consists of for any field the methodology helps teachers to get beyond focus on content delivery and transmission and provides criteria to select from the bewildering array of teaching tools the methods most appropriate to what they are teaching This is a book for faculty who want their students to develop disciplinary forms of reasoning and are moreover interested in a methodology with the potential to transform and reinvigorate their teaching It is particularly suitable for use in communities of practice and should be indispensable for any one engaged in cross disciplinary teaching as it enables co teachers to surface each other's tacit knowledge and disciplinary assumptions
