

Supplementary Information

Table S1. Summary

1. The first section of the document discusses the importance of understanding the underlying mechanisms of the observed phenomena.
2. It is noted that the current study builds upon previous work in this field, which has primarily focused on the effects of external factors.
3. The authors argue that a more comprehensive understanding of the internal processes is necessary to fully explain the observed results.
4. To this end, the present study was designed to investigate the role of internal factors in the observed phenomena.
5. The study was conducted using a combination of experimental and theoretical approaches, allowing for a more thorough exploration of the underlying mechanisms.
6. The results of the study indicate that internal factors play a significant role in the observed phenomena, contrary to the prevailing view that external factors are the primary influence.
7. These findings have important implications for the field, suggesting that a more holistic approach to understanding the observed phenomena is needed.
8. The authors conclude that the current study provides a more complete picture of the underlying mechanisms, paving the way for further research in this area.
9. It is suggested that future studies should continue to explore the complex interactions between internal and external factors to further refine our understanding of the observed phenomena.
10. The authors thank the funding agencies and the participants who made this study possible.
11. The authors also acknowledge the contributions of the research assistants and the reviewers who provided valuable feedback on earlier drafts of the manuscript.
12. The authors declare that they have no conflicts of interest related to this study.
13. The authors provide a statement of ethical approval, stating that the study was conducted in accordance with the relevant ethical guidelines.
14. The authors provide a statement of data availability, stating that the data generated during the study are available upon request.
15. The authors provide a statement of code availability, stating that the code used for the analysis is available upon request.
16. The authors provide a statement of potential conflicts of interest, stating that they have no conflicts of interest related to this study.
17. The authors provide a statement of funding, stating that the study was funded by the National Science Foundation.
18. The authors provide a statement of author contributions, stating that all authors contributed equally and significantly to the study.
19. The authors provide a statement of correspondence, stating that all correspondence should be addressed to the corresponding author.
20. The authors provide a statement of copyright, stating that the copyright for this document is held by the authors.
