Student Exploration: Refraction

Learning Goals: Explain the relationship between the angle of incidence, angle of refraction, and the refractive index of a medium. Predict the direction of light rays when they pass from one medium to another.

Prerequisite Knowledge: Students should understand the concept of light rays and how they travel in straight lines.

1. What would happen if a light ray traveled from air into water? Would it bend? If so, how would it bend?

2. How would the light ray bend if it traveled from water into air? Would it bend? If so, how would it bend? Would it bend more or less than when it traveled from air into water?

Student Exploration: Light rays travel in straight lines. When a light ray travels from one medium to another, it bends. This bending is called refraction. The amount of bending depends on the refractive index of the two media. The refractive index is a measure of how much a medium slows down light. Light travels faster in air than in water, so it bends towards the normal when it enters water.

Student Exploration: The amount of bending depends on the refractive index of the two media.

3. A light ray travels from air into water. What happens to the ray?

a. Does the ray bend towards the normal or away from the normal?

b. Does the ray bend more or less than when it travels from water into air?

Student Exploration: The amount of bending depends on the refractive index of the two media.

4. A light ray travels from air into water. What happens to the ray? Does it bend towards the normal or away from the normal? Does it bend more or less than when it travels from water into air?
