Erosion and Sediment Yields in the Transverse Ranges, Southern California Kevin M. Scott, Rhea P. Williams, 1977

Changes and Disturbance in Tropical Rainforest in South-East Asia D. M. Newbery, T. H. Clutton-Brock, Ghilleen T. Prance, Royal Society (Great Britain), 2000 Views on the dynamics of tropical forests are changing rapidly with the recognition that their environment is variable on the decadal to century scale Fluctuating climatic conditions partly determine tropical forest structure species composition and dynamics Tropical communities are also highly contingent in space and time with respect to site and historical factors Tropical forests have experienced to some degree this disturbance regime in the past but climatologists are now predicting increasingly frequent extreme events in the new century The combination of increasing deforestation and land use conversion by man plus an increasingly variable environment means a situation that could be very difficult to manage

Haupt,Mark A. Maslin,2001-01-09 Published by the American Geophysical Union as part of the Geophysical Monograph Series Volume 126 Until a few decades ago scientists generally believed that significant large scale past global and regional climate changes occurred at a gradual pace within a time scale of many centuries or millennia. A secondary assumption followed: climate change was scarcely perceptible during a human lifetime. Recent paleoclimatic studies, however, have proven otherwise that global climate can change extremely rapidly. In fact, there is good evidence that in the past at least regional mean annual temperatures changed by several degrees Celsius on a time scale of several centuries to several decades.
