Higher Education Computer Science Jenny Carter, Michael O'Grady, Clive Rosen, 2023-05-29. The march towards on-line and blended teaching present before the Covid-19 pandemic has been accelerated by it, and there is no going back. Students and staff may object, but the economic drive towards greater productivity will inevitably result in less face-to-face instruction. Therefore, it is incumbent for those delivering this precious in-person resource to make maximum use of time, which raises the question: how? The second edition of Higher Education Computer Science offers some potential answers. It also addresses other questions such as: why have f2f teaching at all? what is the purpose of f2f? and what is the appropriate balance between the two? The first edition began to offer suggestions for optimising limited opportunities to get together with students. Aligned with that, this unique new volume examines how to use the technology available to maximum advantage. For example, resources such as Moocs and other on-line instructional materials can provide invaluable pedagogic support. In addition, the book addresses problem-based learning using robotics in the teaching of programming and a multidisciplinary approach to data science. Although it includes a chapter on distance learning there is greater emphasis placed on the soft transferable skills and employability skills that are best delivered in person Further the work provides several examples of putting theory into practice when teaching computer science at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels Written by experienced practitioners each chapter tackles a particular teaching activity or topic within computing presented in such a way that other practitioners can use As such this new volume will be an invaluable resource to those who want to protect and optimise in person teaching Nordic Contributions in IS Research Susanne Stigberg,Joakim Karlsen,Harald Holone,Cathrine Linnes,2017-07-28 This book constitutes the proceedings of the 8thScandinavian Conference on Information Systems SCIS 2017 held in Halden Norway in August 2017 The 11 full papers presented in this volume were carefully reviewed and selected from 24 submissions They focus on so called smart systems that prevail in many areas and influence work processes communication leisure activities and lifelong learning and they deal with questions in design implementation and adaptation in organizations
