A Connected Curriculum for Higher Education Dilly Fung,2017-06-07 Is it possible to bring university research and student education into a more connected more symbiotic relationship If so can we develop programmes of study that enable faculty students and real world communities to connect in new ways In this accessible book Dilly Fung argues that it is not only possible but also potentially transformational to develop new forms of research based education Presenting the Connected Curriculum framework already adopted by UCL she opens windows onto new initiatives related to for example research based education internationalisation the global classroom interdisciplinarity and public engagement A Connected Curriculum for Higher Education is however not just about developing engaging programmes of study Drawing on the field of philosophical hermeneutics Fung argues how the Connected Curriculum framework can help to create spaces for critical dialogue about educational values both within and across existing research groups teaching departments and learning communities Drawing on vignettes of practice from around the world she argues that developing the synergies between research and education can empower faculty members and students from all backgrounds to contribute to the global common good Geontologies Elizabeth A. Povinelli, 2016-09-15 In Geontologies Elizabeth A. Povinelli continues her project of mapping the current conditions of late liberalism by offering a bold retheorization of power. Finding Foucauldian biopolitics unable to adequately reveal contemporary mechanisms of power and governance, Povinelli describes a mode of power she calls geontopower, which operates through the regulation of the distinction between Life and Nonlife and the figures of the Desert, the Animist, and the Virus. Geontologies examines this formation of power from the perspective of Indigenous Australian maneuvers against the settler state. And it probes how our contemporary critical languages, anthropogenic climate change, plasticity, new materialism, antinormativity, often unwittingly transform their struggles against geontopower into a deeper entwinement within it. A woman who became a river, a snakelike entity who spawns the fog, plesiosaurus fossils, and vast networks of rock weirs in asking how these different forms of existence refuse incorporation into the vocabularies of Western theory, Povinelli provides a revelatory new way to understand a form of power long self-evident in certain regimes of settler late liberalism but now becoming visible much further beyond. Phagocytosis: New Insights for the Healthcare Professional: 2013 Edition, 2013-07-22 Phagocytosis: New Insights for the Healthcare Professional: 2013 Edition is a ScholarlyBrief that delivers timely, authoritative, comprehensive, and specialized information about Vaccines in a concise format. Contributors discuss what it means for academic writing processes to explore intersectional in-between spaces between monolithic identity markers and power differentials, such as gender, race, ethnicity, class, sexuality, and nationality. How does such a frame change academic writing? How does it make it pertinent to explore new synergies between academic and creative writing? In answer to these questions, the book offers theories, methodologies, political and ethical considerations, as well as reflections on writing strategies. Suggestions for writing exercises developed against the background of the contributors' individual and joint teaching practices will inspire readers to engage in alternative writing practices themselves. Beyond the Iron age: the ecological relevance of bioactive trace metals other than Fe and organic growth factors in aquatic systems Laura Gómez-Consarnau, Sergio A.

Sañudo-Wilhelmy,2015-07-07 Nothing provided      Mental Imagery Joel Pearson,Stephen M. Kosslyn, Our ability to be conscious of the world around us is often discussed as one of the most amazing yet enigmatic processes under scientific investigation today However our ability to imagine the world around us in the absence of stimulation from that world is perhaps even more amazing This capacity to experience objects or scenarios through imagination that do not necessarily exist in the world is perhaps one of the fundamental abilities that allows us successfully to think about plan run a dress rehearsal of future events re analyze past events and even simulate or fantasize abstract events that may never happen Empirical research into mental imagery has seen a recent surge due partly to the development of new neuroscientific methods and their clever application but also due to the increasing discovery and application of more objective methods to investigate this inherently internal and private process As the topic is cross hosted in Frontiers in Perception Science and Frontiers in Human Neuroscience we invite researchers from different fields to submit opinionated but balanced reviews new empirical theoretical philosophical or technical papers covering any aspect of mental imagery In particular we encourage submissions focusing on different sensory modalities such as olfaction audition somatosensory etc Similarly we support submissions focusing on the relationship between mental imagery and other neural and cognitive functions or disorders such as visual working memory visual search or disorders of anxiety Together we hope that collecting a group of papers on this research topic will help to unify theory while providing an overview of the state of the field where it is heading and how mental imagery relates to other cognitive and sensory functions      The Next America Paul Taylor,Pew Research Center,2016-01-26 The America of the near future will look nothing like the America of the recent past America is in the throes of a demographic overhaul Huge generation gaps have opened up in our political and social values our economic well being our family structure our racial and ethnic identity our gender norms our religious affiliation and our technology use Today s Millennials well educated tech savvy underemployed twenty somethings are at risk of becoming the first generation in American history to have a lower standard of living than their parents Meantime more than 10 000 Baby Boomers are retiring every single day most of them not as well prepared financially as they d hoped This graying of our population has helped polarize our politics put stresses on our social safety net and presented our elected leaders with a daunting challenge How to keep faith with the old without bankrupting the young and starving the future Every aspect of our demography is being fundamentally transformed By mid century the population of the United States will be majority non white and our median age will edge above 40 both unprecedented milestones But other rapidly aging economic powers like China Germany and Japan will have populations that are much older With our heavy immigration flows the US is poised to remain relatively young If we can get our spending priorities and generational equities in order we can keep our economy second to none But doing so means we have to rebalance the social compact that binds young and old In tomorrow s world yesterday s math will not add up Drawing on Pew Research Center s extensive archive of public opinion surveys and demographic data The Next

America is a rich portrait of where we are as a nation and where we re headed toward a future marked by the most striking social racial and economic shifts the country has seen in a century      Spaces for Feeling Susan Broomhall,2015-03-05

Spaces for Feeling explores how English and Scottish people experienced sociabilities and socialities from 1650 to 1850 and investigates their operation through emotional practices and particular spaces The collection highlights the forms practices and memberships of these varied spaces for feeling in this two hundred year period and charts the shifting conceptualisations of emotions that underpinned them The authors employ historical literary and visual history approaches to analyse a series of literary and art works emerging forms of print media such as pamphlet propaganda newspapers and periodicals and familial and personal sources such as letters in order to tease out how particular communities were shaped and cohered through distinct emotional practices in specific spaces of feeling This collection studies the function of emotions in group formations in Britain during a period that has attracted widespread scholarly interest in the creation and meaning of sociabilities in particular From clubs and societies to families and households essays here examine how emotional practices could sustain particular associations create new social communities and disrupt the capacity of a specific cohort to operate successfully This timely collection will be essential reading for students and scholars of the history of emotions      Oxford
