Social Interaction in Animals: Linking Experimental Approach and Social Network Analysis Cédric Sueur, Frédéric Mery, 2017-03-14 Understanding the link between individual behaviour and population organization and functioning has long been central to ecology and evolutionary biology Behaviour is a response to intrinsic and extrinsic factors including individual state ecological factors or social interactions Within a group each individual can be seen as part of a network of social interactions varying in strength type and dynamic The structure of this network can deeply impact the ecology and evolution of individuals populations and species Within a group social interactions can take many forms and may significantly affect an individual's fitness These interactions may result in complex systems at the group level such as in the case of collective decisions to migrate to build nest or to forage Among them social transmission of information has been studied mostly in vertebrates fish birds and mammals including humans In insects social learning has been unambiguously demonstrated in social Hymenoptera but this probably reflects limited research effort and recent evidence show that even non eusocial insects such as Drosophila cockroaches and crickets can copy the behaviour of others Compared to individual learning which requires a trial and error period every generation social learning can potentially result in the stable transmission of behaviours across generations leading to cultural traditions in some species The study of the processes which may facilitate or prevent this transmission and the analyses of the relationship between social network structure and efficiency of social transmission became these recent years an emerging and promising field of research The goal of this research topic is to present the genetic and socio environmental factors affecting social interaction and information or pathogen transmission with the integration of experimental approaches social network analyses and modelling Importantly we aim to understand whether a relationship between social network structures and dynamics can reflect the efficiency of social transmission i.e. can we use social network analysis to predict the social transmission of information or of pathogen collective decision making and ultimately the evolutionary trajectory of a group

Ancient Jewish Sciences and the History of Knowledge in Second Temple Literature Jonathan Ben-Dov, Seth L. Sanders, 2014-04-28 Until very recently the idea of ancient Jewish sciences would have been considered unacceptable Since the 1990s Early Modern and Medieval Science in Jewish sources has been actively studied but the consensus was that no real scientific themes could be found in earlier Judaism This work points them out in detail and posits a new field of research the scientific activity evident in the Dead Sea Scrolls and early Jewish pseudepigrapha The publication of new texts and new analyses of older ones reveals crucial elements that are best illuminated by the history of science and may have interesting consequences for it The contributors evaluate these texts in relation to astronomy astrology and physiognomy marking the first comprehensive attempt to account for scientific themes in Second Temple Judaism They investigate the meaning and purpose of scientific explorations in an apocalyptic setting An appreciation of these topics paves the way to a renewed understanding of the scientific fragments scattered throughout rabbinic literature The book first places the Jewish material in the ancient context of the Near Eastern and Hellenistic worlds While the Jewish texts were not on the cutting edge of scientific discovery they find a meaningful place in the history of science between Babylonia and Egypt in the time period between Hipparchus and Ptolemy The book uses recent advances in method to examine the contacts and networks of Jewish scholars in their ancient setting Second the essays here tackle the problematic concept of a national scientific tradition Although science is nowadays often conceived as universal the historiography of ancient Jewish sciences demonstrates the importance of seeing the development of science in a local context The book explores the tension between the hegemony of central scientific traditions and local scientific enterprises showing the relevance of ancient data to contemporary postcolonial historiography of science Finally philosophical questions of the demarcation of science are addressed in a way that can advance the discussion of related ancient materials Online edition available as part of the NYU Library's Ancient World Digital Library and in partnership with the Institute for the Study of the Ancient World ISAW

Organizational Network Analysis Anna Ujwary-Gil, 2019-12-03 The integrated meta model for organizational resource audit is a consistent and comprehensive instrument for auditing intangible resources and their relations and associations from the network perspective This book undertakes a critically important problem of management sciences poorly recognized in literature although determining the current and future competitiveness of enterprises sectors and economies The author notes the need to introduce a theoretical input which is manifested by the meta model An expression of this treatment is the inclusion of the network as a structure of activities further knowledge as an activity and intangible assets as intellectual capital characterized by a structure of connections The case study presented is an illustration of the use of network analysis tools and other instruments to identify not only the most important resources tasks or actors as well as their effectiveness but also to connect the identified networks with each other The author opens the field for applying her methodology revealing the structural and dynamic features of the intangible resources of the organization The novelty of the proposed meta model shows the way to in depth applications of network analysis techniques in an intra organizational environment Organizational Network Analysis makes a significant contribution to the development of management sciences in terms of strategic management and more strictly resource approach to the company through structural definition of knowledge application of the concept of improvement oriented audit abandoning a narrow understanding of this technique in terms of compliance reliable presentation of audits available in the literature rigorous reasoning leading to the development of a meta model close linking of knowledge and resources with the strategy at the design stage of the developed audit model including the analysis of link dynamics and networks together with an extensive metrics proposal an interesting illustration of the application with the use of metrics tables and charts It will be of value to researchers academics managers and students in the fields of strategic management organizational studies social network analysis in management knowledge management and auditing knowledge resources in organizations
