

History Grade 8 Term 4 Summary

Reasons why World War I broke out

manufacturing – making products from raw materials

rivals – enemies

Kaiser – the word for a king in Germany

Unit 1: Overview of long-term causes: Nationalism, industrial economies, control of seas, colonisation and empires

- There were four main long-term causes which led to the outbreak of World War I in 1914.
- These causes included nationalism, the growth of industrial economies, and control of seas, European colonisation and the growth of European empires.
- Nationalism
- By the end of the 19th century, European countries were competing to be the richest, most powerful and strongest European nation.
- This pride and devotion to one's country is called nationalism.
- Industrial economies
- Britain was the first country to become industrialised in the 19th century
- But Germany had begun to catch up and was producing iron, steel, coal and cars.
- By the beginning of the 20th century, Britain no longer had the economic lead in Europe.
- Control of the seas
- Tension had been building up in Europe for many years.
- The main enemies or rivals were Britain and Germany.
- To build and keep a big empire, Britain and Germany had to have powerful navies.
- Britain had the strongest navy in the world.
- It used the navy to protect its coastline, its large overseas empire and its trade routes across the world.
- To challenge British control of the seas, the German Kaiser said he was going to build a great navy that could rival the British navy.
- In response to this, Britain made a formidable new warship called a Dreadnought, which radically changed and improved their power at sea.
- The Dreadnought had an armoured deck, with fast-firing, heavy guns.
- Germany responded by trying to build even more superior warships.
- This was the beginning of the 'naval race,' in which both sides tried to build better and bigger warships.

Propositions Joe L. Rempson, 2020-11-19 Rempson takes issue with those who lay the plight of African Americans on racism not seeing it today as a major obstacle to black progress Rather he traces the origin back to what he terms the African American Garden of Eden In it W E B Dubois outlasted Booker T Washington and fathered a tradition which Rempson argues has produced a victim identity and an emphasis on the system rather than the self Only black males offer a way out he declares because it is entirely our black males who are keeping us down and curtailing our progress in contrast to black females who are doing OK They are plagued by what Rempson calls the African American Male School Adaptability Crisis AMSAC Their academic performance ranks at the bottom alone below black female students and below white Asian and Hispanic male students In large urban areas their high school dropout rate is 59 percent and nationally they lag behind in college attendance and graduation rates The outcome Rempson argues is dysfunctionality and the existence of hedonistic norms which hinder family and community stability But while black males are the problem Rempson contends it is nevertheless only they who can solve it because research and experience show that it takes males to bring up and change other males Though intended for everyone he therefore writes his book to his fellow advantaged black males and makes a passionate plea for them to step up and with the help of black females and of the nation take the lead As their guide he has formulated eight propositions Arrived at through an examination of impressively extensive data from numerous sources and disciplines they are a marked departure from the customary Most strikingly delicate matters such as those which pertain to intelligence quotient IQ and culture are openly confronted and dealt with But Rempson writes unless confronted we will not solve our problems Nor he continues can we solve them unless we cut the umbilical cord to white America We have no right to expect it to be our savior nor are we justified in perceiving it as our oppressor Forcefully and finely written Rempson's book is a singular and courageous contribution Alone his eight propositions make it a worthy read Drawing for Science Education Phyllis Katz,2017-03-23 This book argues for the essential use of drawing as a tool for science teaching and learning The authors are working in schools universities and continual science learning CSL settings around the world They have written of their experiences using a variety of prompts to encourage people to take pen to paper and draw their thinking sometimes direct observation and in other instances their memories The result is a collection of research and essays that offer theory techniques outcomes and models for the reader Young children have provided evidence of the perceptions that they have accumulated from families and the media before they reach classrooms Secondary students describe their ideas of chemistry and physics Teacher educators use drawings to consider the progress of their undergraduates understanding of science teaching and even their moral ethical responses to teaching about climate change Museum visitors have drawn their understanding of the physics of how exhibit sounds are transmitted A physician explains how the history of drawing has been a critical tool to medical education and doctor patient communications Each chapter contains samples insights and where applicable analysis techniques The chapters in this book should be helpful to researchers and teachers alike across the teaching and learning continuum The sections are divided by the kinds of activities for which drawing has historically been used in science education An instance of observation Audubon Linnaeus A process how plants grow over time what happens when chemicals combine Conceptions of what science is and who does it Images of identity development in science teaching and learning The role of parent-child interactions in developmental psychopathology: methodological and intervention challenges and opportunities Rebecca Pearson,Tamsen Jean Rochat,Bronwyne Coetzee,2025-03-06 Parenting research has always faced substantial methodological challenges assumptions and stigma limiting understanding and translation to more family centred support In addition the focus of most research has focused on the early years with far less knowledge about the role of parents in pre adolescence adolescence and the transition to adulthood or beyond Parenting work lacks diversity with regards to inclusion across cultural settings and is usually limited to mothers the role of fathers grandparents adoptive and foster parents and step parents is under represented Current advancements in technology and data science as well as cross cohort collaboration enabling pooling of observed parent offspring interaction in larger numbers provides opportunities to bring together new understanding In addition enabling the voice of diverse parents with lived experience throughout the research process will enhance the meaning and interpretation of findings Higher grounds Patience Adjekai Sowa, PhD,Rachel Jordan,Wendi Ralaingita,Benjamin Piper,2021-05-23 To address chronically low primary school completion rates and the disconnect between learners skills at the end of primary school and the skills learners need to thrive in secondary school identified in many low and middle income countries more investment is needed to improve the quality of teaching and learning in upper primary grades Accordingly we provide guidelines for improving five components of upper primary education 1 In service teacher professional development and pre service preparation to improve and enhance teacher quality 2 a focus on mathematics literacy and core content area subjects 3 assessment for learning 4 high quality teaching and learning materials and 5 positive school climates We provide foundational guiding principles and recommendations for intervention design and implementation for each component Additionally we discuss and propose how to structure and design pre service teacher preparation and in service teacher training and ongoing support fortified by materials design and assessment to help teachers determine where learners are in developmental progressions move learners towards mastery and differentiate and support learners who have fallen behind We provide additional suggestions for integrating a whole school climate curriculum social emotional learning and school related gender based violence prevention strategies to address the internal and societal changes learners often face as they enter upper primary
