

SEPARATION OF POWERS

To avoid one group having all the power, the power to make and manage federal law in Australia is distributed between three branches - the Parliament (also known as the legislative), the Executive and the Judiciary. The Parliament makes and amends the law, the Executive puts the law into action and the Judiciary makes judgements about the law.

JUDICIARY

Power to make judgements on law
Made up of the High Court and the other federal courts.

EXECUTIVE GOVERNMENT

Power to put law into action

The Civic Mission of Museums Anthony Pennay, 2020-12-15. Museums have long sought to maintain relevance in the daily lives of their communities. Over the past several decades museums have shifted as a field from a focus on collections to a focus on connecting with audiences. More recently museums must confront political polarization and a decreasing sense of trust in nearly every public institution. As a result few institutions are better positioned to serve the country than museums. In fact polls show that museums rank among the most trusted institutions in the country regardless of political belief. During tumultuous times this trust means that museums have a unique and important responsibility to fulfill their civic mission. A century ago John Cotton Dana argued that the most important thing a museum can do is produce a public benefit. The Civic Mission of Museums argues that museums play an essential role in the cultivation of engaged and informed citizens. The book outlines a spectrum of civic learning that includes civic knowledge, civic mindset, civic skillset and civic action. It offers concrete examples of impactful civic programming, exhibits and public engagement from a diverse set of museums. It ends with a practical toolkit gleaned from across the country for museum professionals to utilize.

Legal Directives and Practical Reasons Noam Gur, 2018. This book investigates law's interaction with practical reasons. What difference can legal requirements e.g. traffic rules, tax laws or work safety regulations make to normative reasons relevant to our action? Do they give reasons for action that should be weighed among all other reasons? Or can they instead exclude and take the place of some other reasons? The book critically examines some of the existing answers and puts forward an alternative understanding of law's interaction with practical reasons. At the outset two competing positions are pitted against each other: Joseph Raz's view that legitimate legal authorities have pre-emptive force, namely that they give reasons for action that exclude some other reasons, and an antithesis according to which law-making institutions, even those that meet prerequisites of legitimacy, can at most provide us with reasons that compete in weight with opposing reasons for action. These two positions are examined from several perspectives such as justified disobedience, cases, law's conduct-guiding function in contexts of bounded rationality and the phenomenology associated with authority. It is found that although each of the above positions offers insight into the conundrum at hand, both suffer from significant flaws.

These observations form the basis on which an alternative position is put forward and defended According to this position the existence of a reasonably just and well functioning legal system constitutes a reason that fits neither into a model of ordinary reasons for action nor into a pre emptive paradigm it constitutes a reason to adopt an overridable disposition that inclines its possessor towards compliance with the system s requirements

Cyber Citizens Heidi Boghosian,2025-06-24 A grounding exploration of how our online prowess shapes the very essence of democracy The electronic age compels us to confront the delicate balance between the convenience of constant connectivity and the protection of personal privacy security and democracy itself Presented as a two fold concern of digital and civic literacy surveillance and privacy expert Heidi Boghosian argues that our fight to uphold democracy must extend to the online world As smart citizens our best chance of thriving in the digital era lies in taking care of our smart selves as diligently as we maintain our smart devices In the same way that smart devices can disclose private information when not adequately secured our online presence can lead to unintentional data exposure or identity theft That entails a commitment to learning digital literacy and cyber hygiene from the first moment we engage with technology Mastering the fundamentals of civics the rights and responsibilities of citizens rounds out the democratic assignment With AI and machine learning poised to play a transformative role in our 21st century lives we as humans have our own generative learning journey to master Drawing parallels between Americans and their smart devices Cyber Citizens sheds light on the delicate balance between connectivity and privacy to uphold a truly democratic society
