The American Schoolmaster, 1928      Thinking and Learning through Children's Literature Miriam G. Martinez, Junko Yokota, Charles Temple, 2017-04-18 Much of teachers attention these days is focused on having students read closely to ferret out the author's intended meaning and the devices used to convey that meaning But we cannot forget to guide students to have moving engagements with literature because they need to make strong personal connections to books of merit if they are to become the next generation of readers literate people with awareness of and concern for the diversity of human beings around them and in different times and places Fortunately guiding both students personal engagement with literature and their close reading to appreciate the author's message and craft are not incompatible goals This book enthusiastically and intelligently addresses both imperatives first surveying what is gained when students are immersed in literature then celebrating and explicating the main features of literature students need to understand to broaden their tastes and deepen their engagement at the same time they meet external standards then presenting a host of active methods for exploring all major genres of children's books and finally presenting suggestions for interdisciplinary teaching units grounded in literature Created by noted leaders in the fields of children's literature and literacy the book is enlivened by recurring features such as suggested reading lists issues for discussion links to technology and annotations of exemplary books      New Approaches to Literature for Language Learning Jeneen Naji, Ganakumaran Subramaniam, Goodith White, 2019-04-10 This book unpacks recent changes in the landscape of literature and language teaching and aims to find new explanations for the altered relationships between readers and writers the democratisation of authorship and the emergence of new ways of using language By examining topics as various as literature and technology multimodality and new Englishes the authors take a fresh look at the use of literature as a tool in the teaching of English to second language speakers More than simply a way of teaching aesthetic and ethical values and rhetorical skills they argue that literature can also be used to help students to critically evaluate assumptions about society culture and power which underpin the production and reception of texts The book relates theories of language acquisition and literary criticism to examples of literary texts from a wide range of global literature in English and discusses new ways of engaging with it such as transmedia story telling book blogs and slam poetry It will be of interest to language teachers and teacher trainers and to students and scholars of applied linguistics TESOL and digital literacies
