Environment, Safety and Health Progress Assessment of the Rocky Flats Plant ,1993 A Practical Guide to Global Point-of-Care Testing Mark Shephard OAM,2016-11 Point of care testing POCT refers to pathology testing performed in a clinical setting at the time of patient consultation generating a rapid test result that enables informed and timely clinical action to be taken on patient care It offers patients greater convenience and access to health services and helps to improve clinical outcomes POCT also provides innovative solutions for the detection and management of chronic acute and infectious diseases in settings including family practices Indigenous medical services community health facilities rural and remote areas and in developing countries where health care services are often geographically isolated from the nearest pathology laboratory A Practical Guide to Global Point of Care Testing shows health professionals how to set up and manage POCT services under a quality assured sustainable clinically and culturally effective framework as well as understand the wide global scope and clinical applications of POCT The book is divided into three major themes the management of POCT services a global perspective on the clinical use of POCT and POCT for specific clinical settings Chapters within each theme are written by experts and explore wide ranging topics such as selecting and evaluating devices POCT for diabetes coagulation disorders HIV malaria and Ebola and the use of POCT for disaster management and in extreme environments Figures are included throughout to illustrate the concepts principles and practice of POCT Written for a broad range of practicing health professionals from the fields of medical science health science nursing medicine paramedic science Indigenous health public health pharmacy aged care and sports medicine A Practical Guide to Global Point of Care Testing will also benefit university students studying these health related disciplines Biomarkers in Drug Hypersensitivity José A. G. Agúndez, Silvia Selinski, Emanuela Corsini, Klaus Golka, Elena García-Martín, 2017-07-25 Biomarkers especially those based on pharmacogenomics testing have proved to be extremely useful for type A adverse drug reactions Clinical practice guidelines based on biomarker testing are presently being developed and updated for type A adverse drug reactions In contrast little attention has been paid to the potential use of biomarkers in type B adverse reactions characterized by the occurrence of reactions not directly related to the pharmacological properties of the drug Drug induced hypersensitivity belongs to those type B reactions Drug induced hypersensitivity reactions involve complex mechanisms that include among others the metabolic activation and haptenization of drug metabolites Hence factors that influence the pharmacokinetics of drug and metabolites may contribute to the development of some drug induced hypersensitivity reactions This implies that processes such as ADME absorption distribution metabolism and excretion that are typically involved in type A adverse drug reactions may have a role in hypersensitivity reactions too In addition to metabolic activation several signal transduction pathways participate and modulate the development and the clinical presentation of drug hypersensitivity The diverse mechanisms underlying such drug hypersensitivity reactions lead to four major groups of reactions according to the Gell and Coombs classification immediate cytotoxic immune complex and delayed The enormous complexity of drug hypersensitivity reactions is a consequence of the variety of mechanisms involved which may be related among others to drug metabolism generation of antigenic signals stimulation and maturation of dendritic cells presentation of haptens and mechanisms of cytotoxicity In addition a plethora of possible clinical presentations exists including urticaria angioedema anaphylaxis cytopenias nephritis serum sickness vasculitis contact dermatitis drug rash eosinophilia and systemic symptoms Stevens Johnson syndrome toxic epidermal necrolysis and acute generalized exanthematous pustulosis The rapid progress in the field in recent years indicates that the combination of several disciplines is essential to understand the mechanisms involved in this particular and not completely understood type of adverse drug reactions The objective of this Research Topic is to present insights obtained from both basic and clinical scientists which may include studies related to the identification validation refinement and clinical implementation of biomarkers for drug induced hypersensitivity The Topic aims to include recent findings related but not limited to potential phenomic genomic proteomic metabolomic and signal transduction biomarkers These biomarkers could eventually be used in clinical practice and or these might contribute as a proof of concept to our understanding of the complex events leading to drug hypersensitivity reactions In addition the Topic will cover recent developments and methodological advances in the diagnosis prevention and therapeutic management of drug induced hypersensitivity

Liquid Chromatography in Environmental Analysis James F. Lawrence, 2013-11-11 Provides an engaging account of how genetic abnormalities neurobiology and neuropsychology work in concert to manifest cognitive behavioral dysfunction The authors have woven the various molecular genetic genomic neurophysiological and neurobehavioral threads together into a cohesive fabric of human genes brain and behavior The first section provides an introduction to neurobehavioral disorders and their phenotypes in order to investigate the pathway between genes and behavior The second section covers autosomal disorders that produce neurobehavioral dysfunction including neurofibromatosis Prader Willi syndrome and tuberous sclerosis among others The final section considers X linked disorders in which syndromal and nonsyndromal forms of XLMR are present It includes the first comprehensive account of the genotype and phenotype in FRAXE the other fragile X mutation

Improving the Delivery of Pre-exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP) to Eliminate Vertical HIV Transmission Dvora Joseph Davey, Benjamin Chi, Irene Njuguna, Jillian Pintye, Friday Saidi, 2024-10-30 Over half of HIV infections globally occur among cisgender women High HIV incidence among young ie 15 30 years old African cisgender women persists during pregnancy and postpartum and there is evidence that HIV acquisition risk more than doubles during this period A new HIV infection has important short and long term consequences for the mother's health Acute maternal HIV infection is also associated with increased vertical transmission risk making prevention of HIV among pregnant and breastfeeding populations a global health priority As access to antiretroviral therapy continues to expand new and often undiagnosed maternal HIV infections during pregnancy and breastfeeding contribute to a growing proportion of new pediatric HIV cases and urgent focus of interventions to eliminate vertical HIV transmission To address this important gap The World Health Organization WHO and several national HIV programs recommend offering pre exposure prophylaxis PrEP to pregnant and breastfeeding populations at substantial risk for HIV To fully realize the promise of PrEP in antenatal and postnatal settings however real world clinical and implementation data are urgently needed Further there is a need for research on novel long acting tools that prevent HIV acquisition in all populations including pregnant and breastfeeding populations
