

Qualitative Analysis and Chemical Bonding

Concepts:

- Chemical bonding
- Covalent bonding
- Ionic bonding
- Metallic bonding
- Intermolecular bonding
- Physical & chemical properties
- Electronegativity

Introduction

- Types of atoms are not equal in chemical bonds: electronegativity
- In order to understand how all substances behave we need to know how they are bonded, strong
- In order to know a substance behaves like ionic, strong, must be able to separate its ions completely

Electronegativity

- Electronegativity: tendency of an atom to attract electrons towards itself in a covalent compound
- More electronegative atoms are more likely to attract electrons in a bond, pulling them towards itself more
- Electronegativity values are arranged in a table
- From electronegativity values, we can predict the type of bond that will form between two atoms

Chemical bonding

How atoms are bonded together, resulting from forces of attraction and repulsion between them.

Electronegativity

Electronegativity is a measure of an atom's ability to attract electrons towards itself in a covalent compound. It is a relative property, and values are assigned based on a scale.

Electronegativity values are used to predict the type of bond that will form between two atoms. A large difference in electronegativity values indicates an ionic bond, while a small difference indicates a covalent bond.

Teaching Chemistry - A Studybook Ingo Eilks, Avi Hofstein, 2013-04-20 This book focuses on developing and updating prospective and practicing chemistry teachers pedagogical content knowledge The 11 chapters of the book discuss the most essential theories from general and science education and in the second part of each of the chapters apply the theory to examples from the chemistry classroom Key sentences tasks for self assessment and suggestions for further reading are also included The book is focused on many different issues a teacher of chemistry is concerned with The chapters provide contemporary discussions of the chemistry curriculum objectives and assessment motivation learning difficulties linguistic issues practical work student active pedagogies ICT informal learning continuous professional development and teaching chemistry in developing environments This book with contributions from many of the world's top experts in chemistry education is a major publication offering something that has not previously been available Within this single volume chemistry teachers teacher educators and prospective teachers will find information and advice relating to key issues in teaching such as the curriculum assessment and so forth but contextualised in terms of the specifics of teaching and learning of chemistry and drawing upon the extensive research in the field Moreover the book is written in a scholarly style with extensive citations to the literature thus providing an excellent starting point for teachers and research students undertaking scholarly studies in chemistry education whilst at the same time offering insight and practical advice to support the planning of effective chemistry teaching This book should be considered essential reading for those preparing for chemistry teaching and will be an important addition to the libraries of all concerned with chemical education Dr Keith S Taber University of Cambridge Editor Chemistry Education Research and Practice The highly regarded collection of authors in this book fills a critical void by providing an essential resource for teachers of chemistry to enhance pedagogical content knowledge for teaching modern chemistry Through clever orchestration of examples and theory and with carefully framed guiding questions the book equips teachers to act on the relevance of essential chemistry knowledge to navigate such challenges as context motivation to learn thinking activity language assessment and maintaining professional expertise If you are a secondary or post secondary teacher of chemistry this book will quickly become a favorite well thumbed resource Professor Hannah Sevan University of Massachusetts Boston

Coteaching chemical bonding with Upper secondary senior students Felix Schultze, 2018-11-21 The aim of this study was to investigate how an experienced chemistry teacher gains and refines her pedagogical content knowledge PCK by cooperating with two grade 12 students age 18 as coteachers while teaching chemical bonding in a grade 10 Upper secondary class The study has been conducted from a sociocultural perspective especially Vygotsky's zone of proximal development ZPD Vygotsky 1978 Other theoretical concepts and models that has framed this study are Shulman's Pedagogical content knowledge PCK and Pedagogical reasoning and action model Shulman 1986 1987 When analysing the data Magnusson Krajcik and Borko's 1999 model of PCK and the 2017 Refined consensus model of PCK Carlson Daehler et al in press was used Empirical data was collected by video and audio recorded lessons coreflection sessions coplanning sessions and interviews During 10 weeks about 28 hours of video and audio recordings was collected Selected parts of the material were transcribed and analysed in order to answer two questions 1 How can chemistry teachers refine their PCK when coteaching together with senior students in an Upper secondary science class 2 How do Upper secondary senior student coteachers conceptual knowledge of representations and chemical bonding shape a teacher s foundation of personal PCK pPCK when teaching chemical bonding in an Upper secondary science class The results relating to research question one indicates that the coteachers contributed with their own learning experiences to help the teacher understand how students perceive difficult concepts The coteachers were mediating between the teacher and the students thus bridging the gap between the teacher and the students frames of references The experienced chemistry teacher improved her understanding of students thinking about themselves as learners of chemical bonding Regarding the second research question the findings showed that the creative process of reconstructing concepts of chemical bonding in the coplanning sessions meant that these were a useful tool for developing new teaching strategies and to further develop representations such as drama to illustrate chemical bonding Together the teacher and student coteachers constructed a new representation that better illustrated polar covalent bonding Taken together these results provide important insights into how the chemistry teacher s pPCK was refined and how the coteachers contributed to improve instructional strategies
