

Chapter 1

Construction Quality Assurance Program

---

Overview

The Quality Assurance Program (QAP) includes an acceptance program for materials and workmanship, an independent assurance program, and preparation of a project materials certification. Consistent with the Code of Federal Regulations Title 23, Section 637 (23 CFR 637), the QAP ensures “that the materials and workmanship incorporated into each Federal-aid highway construction project on the National Highway System (NHS) are in conformity with the requirements of the approved plans and specifications, including approved changes.” The QAP is also applicable to all California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) projects on the state highway system.

Chapter 1 describes QAP-related organizational roles and responsibilities and the policies and procedures designed to ensure that specified construction materials and workmanship incorporated into each project are acceptable and in conformance with the contract documents. The chapter is organized into 10 sections as follows:

1. Definitions and Abbreviations
2. Specified Level of Quality – Materials and Workmanship
3. Document and Record Control
4. Management and Staff Responsibilities
5. Resource Management
6. Process Control
7. Inspection and Testing
8. Control of Nonconforming Work and Materials
9. Control of Inspection, Measuring and Testing Equipment
10. Project Materials Certification

Section 1 addresses the definitions and abbreviations associated with the specialized vocabulary in quality assurance programs.

Sections 2 through 10 are based in part on the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) 9001, Quality Management Systems. The ISO 9001 standard lists 20 quality management elements that must be addressed in developing and operating a quality assurance program. These sections demonstrate the QAP’s conformance with the ISO 9001 elements applicable to transportation construction. Some ISO 9001 elements are not addressed in the QAP because they reflect the manufacturing-related origins of the ISO 9000 series and a literal application to transportation construction is not appropriate.
