Gallafent,2014-09-11 Quentin Tarantino is one of the best known living American filmmakers in the world and the story of his career has been the subject of a number of books and articles But what do his films mean In this new study Edward Gallafent does not look at Tarantino s story but at the films themselves He asks to what extent Tarantino can be seen as a specifically American filmmaker with the kinds of preoccupations and interests that have formed part of Hollywood s traditions and also how he explores the expressive possibilities of current cinema The book concentrates on the main feature films of Tarantino s career so far Reservoir Dogs Pulp Fiction Jackie Brown and the two volumes of Kill Bill Apart from Kill Bill the films are not treated individually but in terms of some of the subjects that connect them together such as success and tradition their notorious deployment of violence and Tarantino s approach to story telling his interest in presenting events out of chronological order The book also covers adaptations of Tarantino s work looking at the screenplays of True Romance and Natural Born Killers as well as the films made from them and compares Tarantino s approach to adapting Elmore Leonard with that of another important American filmmaker Paul Schrader The aim of the book is to explore these topics and to take the reader back to what the American critic Robert Warshow called the actual immediate experience of seeing and responding to the movies It is designed to appeal both to those who were excited by the films on first seeing them in the cinema and to those taking the opportunity of reconsidering them on the screen or on DVD Movies in American History

Historical Dictionary of Film Noir Andrew Spicer, 2010-03-19 Film noir literally black cinema is the label customarily given to a group of black and white American films mostly crime thrillers made between 1940 and 1959 Today there is considerable dispute about what are the shared features that classify a noir film and therefore which films should be included in this category These problems are partly caused because film noir is a retrospective label that was not used in the 1940s or 1950s by the film industry as a production category and therefore its existence and features cannot be established through reference to trade documents The Historical Dictionary of Film Noir is a comprehensive guide that ranges from 1940 to present day neo noir It consists of a chronology an introductory essay a bibliography a filmography and over 400 cross referenced dictionary entries on every aspect of film noir and neo noir including key films personnel actors cinematographers composers directors producers set designers and writers themes issues influences visual style cycles of films e.g. amnesiac noirs the representation of the city and gender other forms comics graphic novels television and videogames and noir's presence in world cinema It is an essential reference work for all those interested in this important cultural phenomenon

Hollywood's Italian American Filmmakers Jonathan J.

Cavallero, 2011-05-17 This book explores the different ways in which Italian American directors from the 1920s to the present have responded to their ethnicity. While some directors have used film to declare their ethnic roots and create an Italian American imagined community, others have ignored or even denied their background. Cavallero's exploration of the films of Capra, Scorsese, Savoca, Coppola, and Tarantino demonstrates how immigrant Italians fought prejudice, how later generations positioned themselves in relation to their predecessors, and how the American cinema, usually seen as a cultural institution that works to assimilate, has also served as a forum where assimilation was resisted.
