

PHYSICAL KINETIC MOLECULAR THEORY

Learning Objectives

- to identify theoretical differences in how heat conduction occurs in different types of materials and to understand the relationship of the kinetic molecular theory to specific heat capacity and thermal conductivity
- to represent quantitative values for specific heat capacity and thermal conductivity

Module 1: Representation of states in different phases

The following figure illustrates representative particle behaviour across different states of matter:

Students may struggle to represent qualitative differences between solid particles. Encourage representation with clear, visible movement.

Key Questions

- What are the key differences in particle behaviour across different states of matter? How do these differences affect the properties of matter? (See Figure 1. Encourage visible movement to represent the particles movement across different states of matter.)
