

Study the scenarios carefully before you consider the discussion questions. Always express an assessment scenario in terms of the following:

The assessment context	The school community
The person asked to do the assessment activity	Illegal drug use amongst learners at the school
The name of the scenario	The school board and parents association
The consultant	The psychologist who is responsible to address the concern
The content of the consultation	To develop and tailor prevention programmes to accommodate the needs and circumstances of the learners
The test user	The psychologist who uses the questionnaire (in this scenario the consultant and the test user is the same person, namely the psychologist)
The intention of the test user	To identify and target learners who are at risk for illegal drug use
The group targeted for assessment	The learners at the school
The questionnaire	The Alcohol use Intention Questionnaire (AQI)
The outcome of the questionnaire	To determine the level of an individual's intention to use alcohol

Question 1 is your statement that it is your own work.

Question

1. Carl: I prepared a good plan to target the discussion to the intention of the AQI
- Barb: Well, the intention of the questionnaire clearly is to determine the level of an individual's intention to use alcohol
- Carl: Yes, the questionnaire's intention is to identify and target learners who are at risk for illegal drug use
- Jan: Actually the intention of the questionnaire is to assess learners at the school

You agree most with, second most with and least with:

Barb / Carl / Jan

Discussion

Barb's response is correct. She indicates the intention of the questionnaire correctly. Carl identifies the intention of the test user (the psychologist) as the intention of the questionnaire. This is not correct. Although Carl refers to a reason for using the test, in this case the test user's intention is not linked to the intention of the questionnaire. But Barb's response is correct that Carl's. Jan's interpretation of the intention of the questionnaire does not refer to a reason for using the questionnaire. It refers to the target group of the assessment scenario.
