Qualitative Change In Human Geography:

Qualitative Change in Human Geography S. S. Duncan, 2013-10-22 Qualitative Change in Human Geography is a collection of studies that tackles concerns about human geography. The papers presented in the book deal with qualitative issues regarding human geography. The text contains eight different discussions that cover topics such as the direction of social practice research and the concept of people, society, and nature in social science. The book covers how economic and political interaction can explain the creation of spatial structure. The text discusses the explanatory theories and ideologies regarding the obsession of policymakers with the inner city. The book will be of great interest to sociologists, psychologists, and individuals concerned with human geography.

Making Human Geography Kevin R. Cox, 2013-12-17 This book cogently examines how human geography has developed from a field with limited self-awareness regarding method and theory to the vibrant study of society and space that it is today. Kevin R. Cox provides an interpretive critical perspective on Anglo-American geographic thought in the 20th and 21st centuries. He probes the impact of the spatial quantitative revolution and geography's engagement with other social sciences, particularly in social theory. Key concepts and theories in the field are explained and illustrated with instructive research examples. Cox explores both how new approaches to human geography get constructed and what each school of thought has contributed to understanding the world in which we live.

Subsequent chapters explore the use of minicomputers in geography, teaching, expanded model of curriculum development and diffusion in education, postgraduate research, students in British universities, research and application in British geomorphology and the Soviet physical and biological geography. Other chapters detail landscape protection and development, control aims and implementation in British urban and regional planning, main methods of systems analysis relevant to urban and regional modeling, problems of the inner city, and the statistical and cartographic methods of analyzing spatial patterns of mortality.
