Designing Questionnaires for Language Studies Lamont Antieau, 2025-09-30 Designing Questionnaires for Language Studies is a guide to the design and use of questionnaires for empirical linguistic research particularly in the areas of dialectology sociolinguistics and linguistic anthropology Whether completed via written correspondence or through interviewing questionnaires play an essential role in linguistic research Yet the design of questionnaires is rarely taught formally leaving researchers to learn effective design in practice This practical and accessible text offers structured step by step guidance to provide researchers with the skills they need to make the most of questionnaire based research It also provides a history of the use of questionnaires in linguistic research and critically examines the assumptions and motivations inherent in their creation and administration as well as that of the questions that populate them and discusses how biases can negatively affect the outcome of the research itself Experience using these tools in the field has led to their refinement over time Armed with this knowledge readers can make informed decisions about how to structure their own questionnaires as they embark on linguistic investigations or use it to better understand the results of previous research that has relied on questionnaires for data collection

The licensing and usage of topic drop in German Lisa Schäfer, 2025-06-10 This book is concerned with the licensing and usage of the elliptical construction topic drop in German The term topic drop refers to the omission of the preverbal constituent in declarative verb second sentences for example the omission of the subject ich I in the sentence Bin gleich zur ck Am right back Topic drop exists in most of the Germanic verb second languages and typically occurs in spoken language and text types such as SMS chats notes etc While much of the previous research has focused on individual specific properties of topic drop often adopting a purely theoretical perspective this book presents a systematic investigation of both the syntactic properties and usage conditions of topic drop based on empirical evidence from a corpus study and 12 acceptability rating studies The first part of the book investigates the licensing of topic drop in particular its restriction to the preverbal prefield position The results of four rating studies on topic drop in different prefield configurations lead to a refined prefield condition based on proposals by Rizzi 1994 and Freywald 2020 that is independent of topicality Moreover they inform the discussion on the most suitable syntactic analysis of topic drop supporting a PF deletion approach The second part of the book presents and tests an information theoretic account of topic drop usage that builds on the Uniform Information Density hypothesis Levy Jaeger 2007 In a corpus study and seven rating studies several potential usage factors are investigated including grammatical person and verb predictability The results provide initial evidence suggesting that topic drop usage can be explained by general processing principles The prefield constituent is omitted when it is redundant and realized overtly when it facilitates the processing of the following verb This information theoretic explanation is based on independently evidenced processing mechanisms bundles isolated claims from the theoretical literature and allows for a unified analysis of topic drop with other types of ellipsis and reduction

A Cognitive Approach to Genericity in Norwegian Anna Kurek-Przybilski, 2021-12-01 How does one speak about kinds in Norwegian Which noun form should one use to say that dogs bark and cows are mammals And is it always necessary to use a plural noun form to express genericity The study presented in this book shows a cognitive approach to genericity in

Norwegian The study material includes three data sets two surveys and a specialised corpus of generic texts Both the surveys and the corpus were analysed in two ways with the use of chosen cognitive models and with a number of statistical tests Applying both qualitative and quantitative methods has allowed to conduct a comprehensive study on genericity in Norwegian The study of Anna Kurek Przybilski is a comprehensive analysis of genericity in Norwegian The cognitive approach of the project is combined with other analysis models and the results of statistical tests The cognitive perspective on generics proposed and conducted in the project allows for an interesting analysis of language data which is additionally supported by the statistical analyses The study conducted in the project is based on a comprehensive data set An advantage of the study is that the chosen data focuses on the actual language use and language intuitions collected through surveys and provided by carefully chosen respondents native speakers of Norwegian Moreover the analyses were based on a set of generic texts chosen particularly for this purpose The specialised corpus created by the Author was very deliberate both in terms of text genres encyclopaedic texts and the classification of the texts As a result the Author was able to use the models proposed by Radden and Radden and Driven and develop them further to suit the Norwegian language taking into account its specificity From the review by Prof Agnieszka Gicala
